Filipinos Willing to Reimburse the United States.

FLAN TO PURCHASE THE ISLANDS.

Rat if Given Independence Would Ask the United States to Establish a Prosectorate-No Hostility to Americans. To Finish Peace Treaty This Week.

Manilla, Dec. 8.—The native press nontinues to advocate independence and a reimbursement to the United States government of the amount to be paid Spain for the Philippines. The Independencia thinks this course the only just one. It insists that the Filipinos have aided the Americans solely because they believed they were fighting for independence. The paper quotes fiberally from President McKinley's last speech in Chicago to support its contention that the Americans are pledged to give the Filipinos independ-

Chief Aguinaldo and his principal adgisers tully recognize the importance of strong protectorate in ssme form. One of the latter has even ventured the assertion that if the Filipinos were granted independence, in accordance with the demand of the leaders, the United States would be immediately asked to establish a protecto: ate, as etherwise the Philippines must sooner or later become the prey of a less liberal-minded country.
This statement is borne out by the stritude of the better class of Filipinos in the vicinity of Manila. The numerous stories as to hostility felt and displayed on their part toward the Americans are without foundation. The United States authorities expect on the part of the natives a peaceful acceptance of the inevitable.

The United States transport Newport, bearing general Miller and staff and the First tattalion of the Twentieth Kansas regiment, with the Wyoming light battery, which left San Francico Nov. 8, arrived, closely following the City of Puebla, which arrived with Lieutenant Colonel Childers, 25 officers and 600 men, including five companies of the First Tennessee, Troop A of the Nevada volunteer cavalry, a detachment of recruits for the Twenty-third infantry and a detachment for the California heavy artillery.

To provide for the accommodation of these new comers will necessitate the transfer of a number of United States troops outside the limits of the city proper. Paris, Dec. 8.-There was no joint session of the peace commissions, as the Spaniards are still occupied in translating the Americans' answer to their proposal in regard to the status of Spansh subjects in the annexed territories.

One of the Spanish commissioners said: "It is very painful for us to remain here haggling over details, since the main points have been settled and we have been obliged to relinquish our colonies.

"All the work will be finished this week. The commorcial treaty between the United States and Spain will be negotiated upon the re-establishment of diplomatic relations, and the question of Spanish ships and products in Cuba and Porto Rico will be included therein.'

To Cultivate Friendly Relations.

Hongkong, Dec. 8.—General Riewodos and Dr. Lesdajluna, representatives of the Filipino junta, started for Washington under instructions "to endeavor to remove misapprehension and suspicions and cultivate the friendliest relations with the American government and people.'

THE EMERGENCY FUND.

The Amounts Expended by the Various Departments.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The manner in which all war funds were spent is told in detail for the first time in letters sent from all the departments and bureaus to the house committee on appropriations and made public as part of the report on the urgent deficiency bill. Of the emergency national defense fund of $10,000,000 the navy department got the largest amount, viz: $20,-973,275.

The navy has a balance of $285,000 of this fund.

The war department expenditures of the emergency fund amount to $13,931,-

The state department received $393,-

An allotment of $75.000 for expenses of commission of inquiry into the conduct of the war has also been made to the treasury department. How much more will be required the department is unable at this time to state.

PRAISED BY LONG.

He Writes a Reply to Captain Whiting. The Monadnock's Remarkable Voyage.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- The navy department has just made public a report from Captain Whiting, who commanded the Monadnock on the voyage from can Francisco to Manila, in which the latter, after telling of some of the hardships endured during the trip, pays a well deserved compliment to the energy and ability of the officers and crew which made possible what was without doubt the most remarkable voyage made by an ironclad vessel in an emergency.

Captain Whiting's report reached the navy department through Admiral Dewey, says in part:

"Notwithstanding the fortuitous consequence to myself attendant upon the cruise of this vessel to the relief of the Asiatic fleet at Manila, I should consider myself derelict in duty as commanding officer now that the war is over, if I failed to call the attention of yourself and the department to the highly meritorious services rendered by this ship's company of officers and men under the most trying and difficult circumstances.

"The ability, courage, zeal and endurance shown by them in crossing the Pacific ocean in a vessel of this type, practically a raft with only 16 inches free board in her overloaded condition certainly deserve some recognition. A cruise of over 7,000 miles in the tropics."

Secretary Long wrote a letter to Captain Whiting, in which he says:

"It is exceedingly gratifying to the department that, notwithstanding its hardships, the vessel was brought safely to a distant port. The department fully realizes that the cruise of the Monadnock was such as to call upon the patriotism, courage and and ability of all on board.

"In conclusion, the department notices that you modestly give the whole credit for the successful termination of your cruise of 7,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to the ship's company of offi-cers and men, but the department is convinced that in addition to their services it is indebted to you for your good judgment, ability and fine seamanship, qualities most desirable for a commanding officer to possess.

He has not yet given up hopes of successfully raising the Colon, but it is doubtful whether or not the navy department can be induced to go to further expense in this work.

The Senate Committee Reports Serious Complications.

AN AMENDMENT TO THE BILL.

To Authorize an Immediate Issue of $5,000,000 Worth of Bond to Cancel All Obligations-Nicaragua's Attitude Severely Condemned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.-As a result of the meeting of the senate committee on Nicaragua canal Senator Morgan gave notice of an amendment to the Nicharagua canal bill authorizing the immediate issuance with a guarantee by this government of $5,000,000 worth of bonds for the redemption of all outstanding stock except that held by the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica and the cancellation of all obligations. He submitted at the same time a report upon the situation with reference to the canal, dealing exclusively with the fact that the government of Nicaragua granted a concession to construct a canal to another company than the Maritime Canal company.

he deals with this transaction in severe terms, upholding the rights of the Maritime company for the present and for an extension of its concession for ten years. The report arraigns the conduct of the republic of Nicaragua as well as that of the American citizens ecuring the new concession in most severe terms, attributing the course of Nicaragua to jealousy of Costa Rica and that of the concessionaires to "obstruct a great national policy in selling out to a transcontinental railroad company for the defeat of a supposed competitor."

The committee adduces as a justification of the new report the seriousness of the situation, saying on this point:

"The serious consequences likely to result to the United States from the unprecedented and unwarranted action of the late government of Nicaragua, and the evident purpose to force our government into payment of a large sum as compensation for the future consent of the republic of the United States of Central America to the creation of a maritime canal through the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua requires the committee to present the grounds on which it insists that this proceeding is without any support in law, justice or equity, and that it violates the hitherto cordial relations of the United States with Nicaragua.

Dweiling upon Nicaragua's course in the matter the committee say:

"How this unexampled condition is to be dealt with otherwise than by an express and determined attitude on the part of the United States is a question that carries with it the danger of serious embroilment in the near future. If Nicaragua is not held to the performance of her agreement years will elapse and many dangers will be encountered before even a start can be made toward said: the construction of a canal.'

ANOTHER ARMY MEASURE.

Congressman Hull Introduces One With Alger's Approvai.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill increasing the regular army to 100,000 men. The bill was framed at the war department and has the approval of the secretary of war. It is not the bill framed by General Miles, as this measure has not the high rank proposed by the Miles bill, and some of the appointments are open to officers of the volunteers, or from civil life.

It provides for a lieutenant general and what is considered a sufficient increase of major generals and brigadier generals to command an army of 100, 000 men scattered from Porto Rico to Manila. The artillery is reorganized, separating them into coast and field artitlery, but promotion to be by seniority of the whole arm.

Boston, Dec. 8.—At a meeting of the Anti-Imperialist League executive committee a letter was read from John Sherman saying:

"My hope is that the senate of the United States will reject the treaty and leave the people of the islands free from the shackles of Spain and the distant domination of the United States. I sympathize with Aguinaldo in his ambition to found a republic in the China sea, near the equator, and hope he may become the Washington of a new nation, absolutely free from European and American influence."

Bishop Potter of New York and Jas. C. Carter of New York were added to the list of vice presidents of the league. More than 500 petitions protesting against an imperialistic policy regarding Spain's conquered possessions have been received at the Washington and Boston offices of the league, each petition bearing many signatures, and it was decided to begin at once presenting the petitions to the senate.

ANOTHER ARMY MEASURE.

Congressman Hull Introduces One With Alger's Approval.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill increasing the regular army to 100,000 men. The bill was framed at the war department and has the approval of the secretary of war. It is not the bill framed by General Miles, as this measure has not the high rank proposed by the Miles bill, and some of the appointments are open to officers of the volunteers, or from civil life.

It provides for a lieutenant general and what is considered a sufficient increase of major generals and brigadier generals to command an army of 100, 000 men scattered from Porto Rico to Manila. The artillery is reorganized, separating them into coast and field artillery, but promotion to be by seniority of the whole arm.

Filipinos Willing to Reimburse the United States.

PLAN TO PURCHASE THE ISLANDS.

But if Given Independence Would Ask the United States to Establish a Protectorate-No Hostility to Americans. To Finish Peace Treaty This Week.

Manila, Dec. 8 .- The native press continues to advocate independence and a reimbursement to the United States government of the amount to be paid Spain for the Philippines. The Independencia thinks this course the only just one. It insists that the Filipinos have aided the Americans solely because they believed they were fighting for independence. The paper quotes fiberally from President McKinley's last speech in Chicago to support its contention that the Americans are pledged to give the Filipinos independ-

One of the latter has even ventured the assertion that if the Filipinos were granted independence, in accordance with the demand of the leaders, the United States would be immediately asked to establish a protecto ate, as etherwise the Philippines must sooner or later become the prey of a less liberal-minded country.
This statement is borne out by the attitude of the better class of Filipinos in the vicinity of Manila. The numerous stories as to hostility felt and displayed on their part toward the Americans are without foundation. The United States authorities expect on the part of the natives a peaceful acceptance of the inevitable.

The United States transport Newport, bearing general Miller and staff and the First tattalion of the Twentieth Kansas regiment, with the Wyoming light battery, which left San Francico Nov. 8, arrived, closely following the City of Puebla, which arrived with Lieutenant Colonel Childers, 25 officers and 600 men, including five companies of the First Tennessee, Troop A of the Nevada volunteer cavalry, a detachment of recruits for the Twenty-third infantry and a detachment for the Cali-

THE EMERGENCY FUND.

The Amounts Expended by the Various Departments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The manner in which all war funds were spent is told in detail for the first time in letters sent from all the departments and bu-reaus to the house committee on appropriations and made public as part of the report on the urgent deficiency bill.

Of the emergency national defense fund of $10,000,000 the navy department got the largest amount, viz: $29,-

The navy has a balance of $285,000 of this fund.

The war department expenditures of the emergency fund amount to $13,931,-

The state department received $393,-

An allotment of $75,000 for expenses of commission of inquiry into the conduct of the war has also been made to the treasury department. How much more will be required the department is unable at this time to state.

PRAISED BY LONG.

He Writes a Reply to Captain Whiting. The Monadnock's Remarkable Voyage.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- The navy department has just made public a report from Captain Whiting, who commanded the Monadnock on the voyage from can Francisco to Manila, in which the latter, after telling of some of the hardships endured during the trip, pays a well deserved compliment to the energy and ability of the officers and crew which made possible what was without doubt the most remarkable voyage made by an ironclad vessel in an emergency.

Captain Whiting's report reached the navy department through Admiral Dewey, says in part:

"Notwithstanding the fortuitous consequence to myself attendant upon the cruise of this vessel to the relief of the Asiatic fleet at Manila, I should consider myself derelict in duty as commanding officer now that the war is over, if I failed to call the attention of yourself and the department to the highly meritorious services rendered by this ship's company of officers and men under the most trying and difficult circumstances.

"The ability, courage, zeal and endurance shown by them in crossing the Pacific ocean in a vessel of this type, practically a raft with only 16 inches free board in her overloaded condition certainly deserve some recognition. A cruise of over 7,000 miles in the tropics."

Secretary Long wrote a letter to Captain Whiting, in which he says: 'at is exceedingly gratifying to the department that, notwithstanding its hardships, the vessel was brought safely to a distant port. The department fully realizes that the cruise of the Monadnock was such as to call upon the patriotism, courage and and ability of all on board.

"In conclusion, the department notices that you modestly give the whole credit for the successful termination of your cruise of 7,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to the ship's company of officers and men, but the department is convinced that in addition to their services it is indebted to you for your good judgment, ability and fine seamanship, qualities most desirable for a commanding officer to possess.

WHEELER ON ACTIVE LIST.

But the General Will Be Relieved From Further Duty-Now Free to Exercise His Rights In House.

Washington, Dec. 8 .- Major General Wheeler has seen his last active service in the United States army. He was at the war department and had a talk with Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin. It is understood that he will be relieved from further active duty unless there is a recurrence war, but that he will remain on the active list of the United States volunteer army until that army is mustered out of the service by the declaration of peace. This privilege is accorded to him in recognition of his distinguished services, and will leave General Wheel. er free to exercise his functions as a member of the house of representatives during this session.

The command of the Fourth corps, with headquarters at Huntsville, Ala., is now held temporarily by General Chaffee, but it is understood that General Lawton will be the permanent corps commander instead of assuming the command of the Second corps, which is now under orders to go to Cuba. The Fourth corps is known as a reserve corps, and up to this time has received no orders looking to its movement or participation in garrison duty.

Hobson Will Superintend the Raising of the Sunken Warships There.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.-Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson will go to Manila to superintend the raising of the sunken war vessels. He expects to leave about the 20th of this month. Hobson will shortly visit his home in Alabama, but only expects to stay three or four days.

He has not yet given up hopes of successfully raising the Colon, but it is doubtful whether or not the navy department can be induced to go to further expense in this work.

The Senate Committee Reports Serious Complications.

AN AMENDMENT TO THE BILL.

To Authorize an Immediate Issue of $5,000,000 Worth of Bond to Cancel All Obligations-Nicaragua's Attitude Severely Condemned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- As a result of the meeting of the senate committee on Nicaragua canal Senator Morgan gave notice of an amendment to the Nicharagua canal bill authorizing the immediate issuance with a guarantee by this government of $5,000,000 worth of bonds for the redemption of all outstanding stock except that held by the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica and the cancellation of all obligations. He submitted at the same time a report upon the situation with reference to the canal, dealing exclusively with the fact that the government of vicaragua granted a concession to construct a canal to another company than the Maritime Canal company.

he deals with this transaction in severe terms, upholding the rights of the Maritime company for the present and for an extension of its concession for ten years. The report arraigns the conthet of the republic of Nicaragua as well as that of the American citizens ecuring the new concession in most severe terms, attributing the course of Nicaragua to jealousy of Costa Rica and that of the concessionaires to "obstruct a great national policy in selling out to a transcontinental railroad company for the defeat of a supposed competitor."

The committee adduces as a justification of the new report the seriousness of the situation, saying on this point:

"The serious consequences likely to result to the United States from the unprecedented and unwarranted action of the late government of Nicaragua, and the evident purpose to force our government into payment of a large sum as compensation for the future consent of the republic of the United States of Central America to the creation of a maritime canal through the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua requires the committee to present the grounds on which it insists that this proceeding is without any support in law, justice or equity, and that it violates the hitherto cordial relations of the United States with Nicaragua.'

Dwelling upon Nicaragua's course in the matter the committee say:

"How this unexampled condition is to be dealt with otherwise than by an express and determined attitude on the part of the United States is a question that carries with it the danger of serious embroilment in the near future. If Nicaragua is not held to the performance of her agreement years will elapse and many dangers will be encountered before even a start can be made toward the construction of a canal.'

The Is an Aged Woman, and the Consequences May Be Serious -- R. E. Hill Was Hurt at the United States Pottery In Wellsville Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Arb, an aged resident of the West End, this morning met with a serions accident.

The pavements in that part of the city are slippery, and this morning the lady started out to visit a neighbor when she slipped and fell. She was assisted to her home and a physician summoned and it was found that she had broken her leg. The fracture was reduced, but owing to the advanced age of the lady complications may result.

R. E. Hill yesterday afternoon met with a painful, though not serious accident at the plant of the United States Pottery company, in Wellsville. He was working on one of the kilns when one of the iron bands slipped and fell alighting on his foot, seriously mashing his toe. He was assisted to his home in this city and a physician summoned who dressed his injuries.

Just now the question of expansion suggests the topic for most of the letters, and 98 per cent of them approve

The president has received a novel suggestion from George T. Dougherty of Chicago, who says: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free Now we have it in our power to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war. That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine islands, which we may offer to ever covetous England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves of what may turn out to be a white elephant. Pneumatic Tube Which Carries Letters Forty Miles an Hour.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently inspected a pneumatic tube device invented by B C Batcheller, who perfected the dynamite guns used on the Vesuvius. The exhibition took place at the Astor place branch of the New York postoffice, an intermediate station.

By Mr. Batcheller's invention a mail carrier the size of an eight inch shell and weighing 25 pounds, which is hurled through the tube running from the general postoffice to the Grand Central depot can be caught by sensitive electric fingers, switched aside to its proper substation, and there deposited on the receiving table as gently as though it had not just been traveling 40 miles an hour

These electric fingers, too, recognize the carriers which belong to their respective stations and let the others pass This is done by means of disks of varying diameters on the head of the carrier. When a carrier is switched aside to a substation, it strikes an air cushion which breaks its force and is then gently discharged into the receiver This most intelligent machine forces the carriers to keep their proper dis tance apart by means of a time lock When the vehicles have been emptied, they are returned to the starting place -New York World.

MEMOIRS OF BISMARCK.

Long Expected Book Will Be Ready Dec. 10.

INTERESTING EXTRACTS. EOME

Unfavorable Comments Upon Some of the Leading Ladies of the Prussian Court - No Censure For the Men-The Prince's Relations With Emperor William I.

Messrs. Harper & Bros. will soon have ready for general distribution the long expected Bismarck memoirs. The book bears the title "Bismarck, the Man and the Statesman, Being the Reflections and Reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, Written and Dictated by Himself After His Retirement from Office." It has been translated from the German under the supervision of A. J. Butler, late a fellow of Trinity college, Cambridge. The period covered is from 1832 to 1888. Thus it takes no account of the earlier or later days of the great

At all points the memoirs will disappoint expectations. There is little in these two bulky volumes which is startlingly new, still less that is startlingly aggressive. The lust of the many for gossip, the love of the few for instruction will find scant gratification. In the latter respect the volumes are indeed more valuable than Dr. Busch had led us to hope. In the former they are far less offensive than the same authority had led us to fear. It will be remembered that Dr. Busch in his somewhat sensational work quoted a conversation held with Bismarck in March, 1891. The prince, who was even then at work on his memoirs, complained of the difficulties attending the task.

"I have no documents," he said, "and even if I remember the main points quite clearly one cannot, after all, carry in his head every detail that has happened in the course of 30 years." And again: "Ever since 1847 I have constantly represented the monarchical principle and held it aloft like a banner. Now I have seen three kings in a state of nudity, and frequently these three exalted gentlemen did not make altogether a good show. Still, it would not do to say that openly before the world. It would be inconsistent, opposed to principle. And yet I can just as little keep silence when once I come to deal with that point, to say nothing tears." Next morning his depression Frederick III is thoroughly tucked in beneath the mantle of charity, and William II is not even mentioned, save incidentally, though some of the praise bestowed upon William I is evidently meant as an oblique reflection upon William II.

Toward the ladies of his entourage the old chancellor is less chivalrous. Of William I's wife the old chancellor writes: "Princess Augusta preserved from her youthful days at Weimar to her life's end the impression that French, and still more English, author ities and persons were superior to those of her own country. She was of true German blood in one way. In her was verified that national fashion most sharply expressed in the phrase, 'that does not come from afar, so, 'tis good for nothing.' A cocksure Frenchman with a voluble tongue imposed upon her, an Englishman had always the presumption on his side until the contrary was proved that he was to be treated in Germany as a superior per-

In accordance therefore quite reasonable. with the mode of thought peculiar to him, he sought for the motives of my conduct, not where they really laythat is, in the anxiety to keep my country independent of foreign influences, influences which found a fertile soil in our narrow minded reverence for England and fear of France and in the desire to hold ourselves aloof from a war which we should not have carried on in our own interests-but in dependence upon Austrian and English policy." In short, in the eyes of the prince consort Bismarck appeared as a reactionary party man who had taken up sides for Russia during the Crimean imbroglio in order to further an absolutist and 'junker' policy. Of Queen Victoria he simply says that she spoke to him at the same ball in German and apparently looked upon him as a noteworthy but ansympathetic personality. "Still her tone of voice was without that touch of ironical superiority that I thought I detected in Prince Albert's. She continued to be amiable and courteous, like one unwilling to treat an eccentric fellow in an unfriendly way.' Bismarck foresaw nothing but mischief in the petticoat innuence to wnien the Prussian kings were successively subjected. He threw all the weight of his great personality against it. When This did not leave him even when, after Frederick William IV was prostrated an excited discussion about my resignaby an apoplectic stroke in 1858, a strong effort was made to have the government carried on through the queen by those gentlemen of the court who might be called upon or might offer to undertake it. "My participation in this plan was also requested verbally, but I absolutely refused. It would be a government by barem." Bismarck was the chief agency in having the regency placed in the hands of the king's brother, who ultimately succeeded him as William I. In his antagonism to petticoat government Bismarck had found a stout ally in Gustav von Alvensleben, afterward leader of the Fourth corps at Beaumont and Sedan. Indeed that bluff soldier frequently vented his opinion, even before William himself, "In words that I do not want to repeat, but that expressed all the indignation of a patriotic soldier over ladies playing at politics in language that very nearly came within the penal statutes.'

Von Alvensleben also shared Bismarck's opinion as to the necessity of a final settlement of the rivalry between Prussia and Austria on the field of battle. "When I incidentally asked him his opinion as to the issue of a first pitched battle between us and the Austrians, he said, 'We will walk over them till they stand on their heads.' And his confidence contributed to strengthen my courage in the difficult decisions of 1864 and 1866."

The battle of Koniggratz justified the confidence of Von Alvensleben and Bismarck. But it upset all the carefully laid plans of Napoleon III. He had preserved neutrality in the hope that Prussia would be defeated and in need of assistance. Now he threatened to interfere in favor of Austria. Bismarck's counsels were all for moderation with Austria and for temporizing with France. He well knew that if Prussia followed up her advantage by crushing Austria she would make an inveterate enemy of the latter and bring down upon herself an immediate war with France. Both contingencies must be avoided. Hence he advised King William to make peace on the basis of the territorial integrity of Austria. But at first Bismarck found himself alone in these opinions. The king supported the military majority, which was jealous of the president minister and bitterly opposed to his views. Bismarck left the council of war, walked into his bedchamber adjoining "and was there overcome by a paroxysm of of asserting the contrary." Yet in | was so great that he was actually conthese volumes the three royal gentlemen templating throwing himself out of the tion the world over. "As yet," he says. then the door opened, a step was heard, a hand was placed upon the shoulders of the potential suicide, and Bismarck heard the voice of the crown prince saying: "You know that I was against this war. You considered it necessary, and the responsibility for it lies upon you. If you are now persuaded that our end is attained and peace must now be concluded, I am ready to support you and defend your opinion with my father."

He then repaired to the king, and in a short half hour returned with the following rather ungracious concession penciled on the leaf of a notebook: "Inasmuch as my minister president has left me in the lurch in the face of the enemy, and here I am not able to supply his place, I have discussed the question with my son, and as he has associated himself with the minister president's opinion I find myself reluctantly compelled, after such brilliant victories, to bite the sour apple and accept so disgraceful a peace.

Peace brought with it a postponement of the war with France. But Bismarck well knew that it was only a postponement. At no time, he tells us, did he regard such a war as a simple matter, considered quite apart from the possible allies that France might find in Austria's thirst for revenge or in Russia's desire for a balance of power. "My strenuous efforts to postpone the out-Though he conversed courteously with | break of the war until the effect of our the Prussian embassador, there was in military legislation and our military his manner "a kind of malevolent curi- training could be thoroughly developed osity, from which I concluded that my in all portions of the country which antioceidental influence upon the king | had been newly joined to Prussia were Bismarck adds that it was personal love for William I, not his own general conception of the relation of a king by the grace of God to his servants, which enabled him to endure occasional injustice at the royal hands without feelings of indignation. But "the extent of monarchical devotion is not identical as regards every prince. It makes a difference whether the limit is drawn by political understanding or by feeling. A certain measure of devotion is determined by the laws, a still greater by political conviction. Anything beyond that requires a personal feeling of reciprocity, and this it is which brings it about that loyal masters have loyal servants, whose devotion extends beyond what is required by public considerations. It is a peculiarity of royalist feeling that any one who is moved by it does not cease to feel himself the servant of the monarch, even when he is conscious that he influences the decisions of the king. One day (in 1863) the king spoke to his wife with admiration of my skill in guessing his intentions and, as he added after a pause, of directing them. In acknowledging this

FRACTURE HER LEG

She Is an Aged Woman, and the Consequences May Be Serious -- R. E. Hill Was Hurt at the United States Pottery In Wellsville Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Arb, an aged resident of the West End, this morning met with a serious accident.

The pavements in that part of the city are slippery, and this morning the lady started out to visit a neighbor when she slipped and fell. She was assisted to her home and a physician summoned and it was found that she had broken her leg. The fracture was reduced, but owing to the advanced age of the lady complications may result.

R. E. Hill yesterday afternoon met with a painful, though not serious accident at the plant of the United States Pottery company, in Wellsville. He was working on one of the kilns when one of the iron bands slipped and fell alighting on his foot, seriously mashing his toe. He was assisted to his home in | nudity. INTERESTING EXTRACTS. SOME

Unfavorable Comments Upon Some of the Leading Ladies of the Prussian Court - No Censure For the Men-The Prince's Relations With Emperor William I.

Messrs. Harper & Bros. will soon have ready for general distribution the long expected Bismarck memoirs. The book bears the title "Bismarck, the Man and the Statesman, Being the Reflections and Reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, Written and Dictated by Himself After His Retirement from Office." It has been translated from the German under the supervision of A. J. Butler, late a fellow of Trinity college, Cambridge. The period covered is from 1832 to 1888. Thus it takes no account of the earlier or later days of the great chancellor.

It will be remembered that Dr. Busch in his somewhat sensational work quoted a conversation held with Bismarck in March, 1891. The prince, who was even then at work sels were all for moderation with Ausficulties attending the task.

"I have no documents," he said, 'and even if I remember the main points quite clearly one cannot, after all, carry in his head every detail that has happened in the course of 30 years." the old chancellor is less chivalrous, Of William I's wife the old chancellor writes: "Princess Augusta preserved from her youthful days at Weimar to her life's end the impression that French, and still more English, author ities and persons were superior to those of her own country. She was of true German blood in one way. In her was verified that national fashion most sharply expressed in the phrase, 'that does not come from afar, so, 'tis good for nothing.' It was on Aug. 5, 1855, that Bismarck first met Queen Victoria and describes the prince as looking handsome and cool in his black uniform. Though he conversed courteously with was not unknown to him. In accordance with the mode of thought peculiar to him, he sought for the motives of my conduct, not where they really laythat is, in the anxiety to keep my country independent of foreign influences, influences which found a fertile soil in our narrow minded reverence for England and fear of France and in the desire to hold ourselves aloof from a war which we should not have carried on in our own interests-but in dependence upon Austrian and English policy." In short, in the eyes of the prince consort Bismarck appeared as a reactionary party man who had taken up sides for Russia during the Crimean imbroglio in order to further an absolutist and "junker" policy. Of Queen Victoria he simply says that she spoke to him at the same ball in German and apparently looked upon him as a noteworthy but ansympathetic personality. "Still her tone of voice was without that touch of ironical superiority that I thought I detected in Prince Albert's. She continued to be amiable and courteous, like one unwilling to treat an eccentric fellow

"My participation in this plan was so high in his own royal estimation and also requested verbally, but I absolutely in his sense of justice that he was never refused. It would be a government by barem." Bismarck was the chief agency in having the regency placed in the hands of the king's brother, who ultimately succeeded him as William I. In his antagonism to petticoat government Bismarck had found a stout ally in Gustav von Alvensleben, afterward leader of the Fourth corps at Beaumont and Sedan. Indeed that bluff soldier frequently vented his opinion, even before William himself, "In words that I do not want to repeat, but that expressed all the indignation of a patriotic soldier over ladies playing at politics in language that very nearly came within the penal statutes.'

Von Alvensleben also shared Bismarck's opinion as to the necessity of a final settlement of the rivalry between Prussia and Austria on the field of battle. "When I incidentally asked him At all points the memoirs will disap- his opinion as to the issue of a first point expectations. He well knew that if Prussia followed up her advantage by crushing Austria she would make an inveterate enemy of the latter and bring down upon herself an immediate war with France. Both contingencies must be avoided. Hence constantly represented the monarchical on the basis of the territorial integrity

But at first Bismarck found himself alone in these opinions. The king supported the military majority, which heard the voice of the crown prince saying: "You know that I was against this war You considered it necessary, and is attained and peace must now be con-Toward the ladies of his entourage cluded, I am ready to support you and defend your opinion with my father.

He then repaired to the king, and in a short half hour returned with the following rather ungracious concession penciled on the leaf of a notebook: "Inasmuch as my minister president has left me in the lurch in the face of the enemy, and here I am not able to supply his place, I have discussed the question with my son, and as he has associated himself with the minister president's opinion I find myself reluctantly compelled, after such brilliant victories, Bismarck adds that it was personal love for William I, not his own gener: conception of the relation of a king h the grace of God to his servants, which enabled him to endure occasional injustice at the royal hands without feelings of indignation. But "the extent of monarchical devotion is not identical as regards every prince. It makes a difference whether the limit is drawn by political understanding or by feeling. A certain measure of devotion is determined by the laws, a still greater by political conviction. Anything beyond that requires a personal feeling of reciprocity, and this it is which brings it about that loyal masters have loyal servants, whose devotion extends beyond what is required by public considerations. It is a peculiarity of royalist feeling that any one who is moved by it does not cease to feel himself the servant of the monarch, even when he is conscious that he influences the decisions of the king. One day (in 1863) the king spoke to his wife with admiration of my skill in guessing his intentions and, as he added after a pause, of directing them. In acknowledging this

"Even with feelings like this he stood accessible to any feeling of Saullike jealousy of me. He had the true kingly feeling. Not only was the possession of a powerful and respected servant not disagreeable to him, but the thought was an elevating one to him. He was too distinguished to feel like a nobleman who cannot endure to have a rich and independent peasant in the village.' Is there not here a very slightly veiled allusion to Wilhelm II-a moral pointed at the grandson who was guilty of the Saullike jealousy impossible to the grandfather? No reader can fail to see this. But it is the single reference in the book to the final dismissal of the great chancellor from power. The memoirs only come down to the accession of Frederick William as Emperor Frederick III. -New York Herald.

TO LIBERATE IRELAND.

Novel Plan Suggested to the President by a Chicago Man.

The president receives an average of 1,700 letters a day. One-half of them ask favors of one kind or another. The other half offer advice on every subject under the sun, or express their approval or disapproval of executive acts and policy. Just now the question of expansion suggests the topic for most of the letters, and 98 per cent of them approve

The president has received a novel suggestion from George T. Dougherty of Chicago, who says: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free Now we have it in our power to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine islands, which we may offer to ever covetous England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves he advised King William to make peace of what may turn out to be a white elephant. This is a golden opportunity for President McKinley to undertake such a deal and cover himself and the American people with glory. McKinley's ancestors were Irish, and his greatgranduncle, Francis McKinley, was shot down by the British soldiers as an Irish rebel after a farcical court martial about 100 years ago.'

FAST MAIL CARRIER.

Pneumatic Tube Which Carries Letters Forty Miles an Hour.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently inspected a pneumatic tube device invented by B C Batcheller, who perfected the dynamite guns used on the Vesuvius. The exhibition took place at the Astor place branch of the New York postoffice, an intermediate station.

By Mr. Batcheller's invention a mail carrier the size of an eight inch shell and weighing 25 pounds, which is hurl ed through the tube running from the general postoffice to the Grand Central depot can be caught by sensitive electric fingers, switched aside to its proper substation, and there deposited on the re ceiving table as gently as though it had not just been traveling 40 miles an hour

These electric fingers, too, recognize the carriers which belong to their respective stations and let the others pass by. This is done by means of disks of varying diameters on the head of the carrier. When a carrier is switched aside to a substation, it strikes an air cushion which breaks its force and is then gently discharged into the receiver This most intelligent machine forces the carriers to keep their proper distance apart by means of a time lock When the vehicles have been emptied, they are returned to the starting place -New York World.

AND SLEPT IN THE CITY JAIL

When They Appeared Before Mayor Rough This Morning He Gave Them Five Minutes to Leave Under Penalty of Workhouse Sentence.

Yesterday afternoon Officer McMilan arrested and took to jail two colered women, whom he found in Drury tane near Peach alley. They were so drank that they did not know their sames and the officer had all he could do to land them in jail. When the officer put them in cell No 3 he did not care to search them owing to their condition. It was not long until they were asleep. They did not awaken until after 7 o'clock, at which time supper was brought to them. An attempt was made to learn their names, but this was unsuccessful. Their condition was worse than when they were brought in. Chief Johnson, when he learned this, made an investigation and found that they had concealed a half-pint bottle of whiskey in the beding. This was taken from them, and this morning when they were brought before the mayor they were entirely sobered. They gave their names as being Malissa Lewis and Sarah Suckers. They would not tell their right names, but the fact that they are married and have different names is known to the police. They were given five minutes to get out of town or take six months to the works. They started for their homes near Georgetown.

The record of arresting women by officers is as follows: White, 1; Mc-Millan, 2; Grim, 3.

Chief Johnson is determined to break up the practice of children riding on the sidewalks, and yesterday afternoon several sleds were brought to city hall as a result.

No complaints were filed yesterday. and the jail is once more vacant.

CROP REPORT.

Wheat Is Away Up While Other Products Are Not so Good.

The official crop report of the Ohio department of agriculture has been made for the month of November, which shows that wheat, as compared with an average, was 100 per cent. Of this, 14 per cent was sold as soon as threshed and 6 per cent was damaged while growing. The estimated area of corn for the year was 2.954.564 acres, or an estimated average yield of 38 bushels to the acre. Of the land that was sown in clover but 14 per cent of it was cut for seed. The total yield of apples, as compared with an average, was but 9 per eent. The estimated area for the year on potatoes was 117.341 acres. The estimated product of tobacco per acre was $33 pounds. The cattle being fed for the spring market, as compared with last year, was 32 per cent. The sheep was the same.

FINE COASTING,

But It Is Not Pleasant For Pedestrians.

Some of the hill streets are in splendid condition for coasting, and last night scores of youngsters enjoyed the sport. Avondale street was filled until a late hour, it being one of the best tracks in the city. Pedestrians, however, did not enjoy the sport, and although no accidents are reported there were many narrow escapes.

"If every small boy is allowed to use the streets and pavements of the city as coasting ground they should be compelled to put bicycle lamps on their sleds," said a well-known resident today. "In that way the city may be *aved a damage action."

EDUCATIONAL STATISTICS.

One-fifth of the United States' Entire

The report of the secretary of the interior shows that one-fifth of the entire population of the United States is in school-the total being 16,225,093, although the total average schooling enjoyed by the people of the United States does not equal more than 1,000 days for each inhabitant.

Of recent years there has been a large increase in the number of students in colleges and universities. The total in 1871 was 88,864, and in 1898 was 217,-763. In 1872 the proportion was 590 students to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. In 1898 it was 1,216 to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. Considering that the standard of admission to colleges has been considerably raised during that period, Secretary Bliss estimates the number of students at colleges and universities is three times greater than it was 25 years ago and that the number pursuing postgraduate courses is 25 times as large as it was in 1872.

Another important and interesting item shows the expenditure per capita of population for public schools has been gradually increased from $1.75 in 1871 to $2.62 in 1898, while the expenditure per pupil per year has increased from $15.20 to $18.57. The total expenditure for public schools in 1871 was $69,107,612 and in 1897 it was $187,-320,602. The total number of pupils in 1897, 14,652,492. AND SLEPT IN THE CITY JAIL

When They Appeared Before Mayor Rough This Morning He Gave Them Five Minutes to Leave Under Penalty of . Workhouse Sentence.

Yesterday afternoon Officer McMillan arrested and took to jail two colered women, whom he found in Drury tane near Peach alley. They were so drank that they did not know their names and the officer had all he could do to land them in jail. When the officer put them in cell No 3 he did not care to search them owing to their condition. It was not long until they were asleep. They did not awaken until after 7 o'clock, at which time supper was brought to them. An attempt was made to learn their names, but this was unsuccessful. Their condition was worse than when they were brought in. Chief Johnson, when he learned this, made an investigation and found that they had concealed a half-pint bottle of whiskey in the beding. This was taken from them, and this morning when they were brought before the mayor they were entirely sobered. They gave their names as being Malissa Lewis and Sarah Suckers. They would not tell their right names, but the fact that they are married and have different names is known to the police. They were given five minutes to get out of town or take six months to the works. They started for their homes near Georgetown.

The record of arresting women by officers is as follows: White, 1; Mc-Millan, 2; Grim, 3.

Chief Johnson is determined to break up the practice of children riding on the sidewalks, and yesterday afternoon several sleds were brought to city hall as a result.

No complaints were filed yesterday. and the jail is once more vacant.

One-Afth of the United States' Entire Population Is In School.

The report of the secretary of the interior shows that one-fifth of the entire population of the United States is in school-the total being 16,225,093, aljoyed by the people of the United States each inhabitant.

Of recent years there has been a large increase in the number of students in colleges and universities. The total in 1871 was 88,864, and in 1898 was 217,-763. In 1872 the proportion was 590 students to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. In 1898 it was 1,216 to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. Considering that the standard of admission to colleges has been considerably raised during that period, Secretary Bliss estimates the number of students at colleges and universities is three times greater than it was 25 years ago and that the number pursuing postgraduate courses is 25 times as large as it was in 1872.

Another important and interesting item shows the expenditure per capita of population for public schools has been gradually increased from $1.75 in 1871 to $2.62 in 1898, while the expenditure per pupil per year has increased from $15.20 to $18.57. In his antagonism to petticoat government Bismarck had found a stout ally in Gustav von Alvensleben, afterward leader of the Fourth corps at Beaumont and Sedan. Indeed that bluff soldier frequently vented his opinion, even before William himself, "In words that I do not want to repeat, but that expressed all the indignation of a patriotic soldier over ladies playing at politics in language that very nearly came within the penal statutes.'

Peace brought with it a postponement of the war with France. But Bismarck well knew that it was only a postponement. Just now the question of expansion suggests the topic for most of the letters, and 98 per cent of them approve

The president has received a novel suggestion from George T. Dougherty of Chicago, who says: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free Now we have it in our power to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war. That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine islands, which we may offer to ever covetons England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves of what may turn out to be a white for President McKinley to undertake such a deal and cover himself and the American people with glory. Pneumatic Tube Which Carries Letters Forty Miles an Hour.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently inspected a pneumatic tube device invented by B C Batcheller, who perfected the dynamite guns used on the Vesuvius. The exhibition took place at the Astor place branch of the New York postoffice, an intermediate station.

carrier the size of an eight inch shell and weighing 25 pounds, which is hurled through the tube running from the general postoffice to the Grand Central depot can be caught by sensitive electric fingers, switched aside to its proper substation, and there deposited on the re ceiving table as gently as though it bad not just been traveling 40 miles an hour

These electric fingers, too, recognize the carriers which belong to their respective stations and let the others pass by. This is done by means of disks of varying diameters on the head of the carrier. When a carrier is switched aside to a substation, it strikes an air cushion which breaks its force and is then gently discharged into the receiver the carriers to keep their proper distance apart by means of a time lock When the vehicles have been emptied, they are returned to the starting place -New York World.

A man in the darkness of hopeless disease is of all men most miserable. When doctors and medicines innumerable have been tried and found wanting, and loving friends vainly urge upon him the food he cannot eat and which brings him no nour ishment or strength, what is to be done?

Men and women who have sunken se far into weakness and disease that the whole body seems to be permeated and poisoned by it have found health, strength and vigor through the transform ing, electrifying power of that wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" which Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., proffered, thirty years ago, to sick and suffering humanity

During all the years since then this marvelous "Discovery" has been building up weak and debilitated constitutions by its extraordinary influence upon the human, nutritive system. It gives the digestive organism keen power and capacity to appropriate every life giving element from the food taken into the stomach and transforms it into rich, highly vitalized blood and healthy flesh, bone, sinew and nerve

Consumption in all its earlier stages is arrested and counteracted by the tissuebuilding, flesh-making, life-promoting power of this grand medicine and there is no darkness of bodily ailment so dense but it will shed upon the sufferer the light of renewed hope.

Quaint Holiday Customs In the Moraviau Village of Bethlehem, Pa.

Christmas Town is in its glory on Christmas. Christmas Town is the old village in Pennsylvania which was named Bethlehem 157 years ago by Count Zinzendorf, head and founder of the Moravian faith. The count arrived in the settlement on Dec. 24, 1741. That evening he took a lighted candle and entered the stable belonging to the single tiny stone dwelling of the place, and then and there, with the smell of the hay about him, he named the town that was to be Bethlehem "Nicht Jerusalem, sondern Bethlehem." Every Christmas eve since then has had its "vigil." Every Moravian home has its Christmas tree, flanked by "putzen." A putz is a beautiful bit of indoor landscape gardening, with fuzzy white cotton for snow, and always a tiny stable of Bethlehem, with a doll Christ in a 6 inch manger, and doll Joseph, Mary and wise men standing by, while a tinsel star of the east shines with undiminished ray

Three o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 24 finds every Moravian family in the great stone church, built in 1806. The pulpit and reading desk are concealed by a big picture of the nativity. Classical music of the utmost beauty is sung at the love feast service. It is special Moravian music, often sung from manuscript scores over 100 years old, which when not in use are kept in the great archive vaults of the church. Peals out the great chorus:

Laszt uns heute froh und selig bei der krippe Jesu sein; Den de Gnaden sind unsaelig die uns schenkt das Jesulein. Then the "dieners," or sacristans, men and women, enter the great front doors. The men carry buge trays of steaming cups of coffee, the white capped women delicious Moravian bunsthose wonderful buns prepared by three generations of hereditary Moravian bak women and larger children return at 6 that being believed to be the wisest and for the "vigil." The church is ablaze with lights, crowded to overflowing. There is a choir of about 60, married women wearing pink ribbons in their caps, the unmarried girls blue. There is the famous Moravian trombone choir, a full string orchestra and J. Fred Wolle at the great organ. And the children do their share of the singing Again each person in the audience, young or old, receives a lighted candle in memory of the one borne by Count Zinzendorf so many years ago. Even the choir members hold tapers as they sing.-New York World.

CARNEGIE'S NEW HOME.

To Build the Most Modest, Plainest and Most Roomy House In New York.

Andrew Carnegie admitted the other day that he was the purchaser of the two blocks, comprising 30 lots, of city realty in Fifth avenue between Ninetieth and Ninety-second streets, in New York. Charles A. Gould is also interest ed in the purchase to some extent. Mr Carnegie intends to build on the prop erty not a "palace," he said, but "the most modest, plainest and most roomy house in New York." He had bought the property, he said, because he wanted to live "alongside the park."

"This precious little life that has come to us needs the park and sunshine." said Mr. Carnegie, "and it is for these reasons that we not only have concurred in the advice of our physician, but deemed it a duty to move up to the highest ground and where there is plenty of room. As for building a grand palace, that is foreign to our tastes. Mr. Carnegie will build on the bloc between Ninetieth and Ninety-first streets. It was said recently by realty men concerned in his purchase that he intended to sell the northerly block of the two to purchasers who would be congenial neighbors, for improvement with private dwellings. The deeds for the whole, it was said, would be drawn in the name of Mrs. Carnegie.

Notice has been served on the lessee of the riding academy now occupying a part of the southerly plot to vacate the building within 60 days. The plot is to be brought to a level grade and sodded. so that when any part is sold and improved the ansold remainder can be maintained like a private park.-New York Tribune.

COL HECKER TESTIFIES.

He Denies to War Investigators That There Was Any Influence In Routing of Troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- The war investigating commission examined several witnesses, including Paymaster General Stanton and Colonel Hecker, quartermaster in charge of transportation of the troops. Paymaster General Stanton testified that orders and requests were given him from those in command of the forces, asking that the pay of the volunteers be deferred until Dinner at 5 o'clock over, the men, they should return to the United States, most judicious course. Pay was withheld in Cuba on the order of Major General Miles, he thought, and from the troops in Porto Rico either on orders or requests of several commanders.

Colonel Hecker, who had just returned from Cuba, was examined in detail as to the charters and purchases of vessels by the war department. He said between June 20 and July 25 he purchased 17 vessels on the authority of the secretary of war. He found 90 per cent of the vessels offered wholly unsuited.

"The prices paid," he insisted, "would have been a fair value under ordinary circumstances." He said further there was not a single instance where any influence outside the government and the contracting parties could have been used in the purchases. "Was there any possibility for any third party to be benefited by these sales?

"In the cases of the Port Victor and the Scandia there certainly was," was the reply. "To what extent, however, I can't tell."

Queried as to the railway contracts he interjected that it was not he but the railways that "controlled the rates. as they charged more than they ought to have received. He referred to transportation arrangements between Chickamauga and Newport News and said better rates had been obtained by letting these contracts in this city, the tariff having been reduced from $13 to $8 per man for the same service.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 8. - In the lower house of rhe Hungarian diet some noisy scenes occurred. The letter of Dr. D. de Szilagyi, president of the chamber of deputies, announcing his resignation, was read and Dr. L. Lang, one of the vice presidents, personally announced. his resignation.

Francis Kossuth, in behalf of his party, and Palonyi, for the Independents, proposed that no cognizance be taken of Dr. Szilagyi's resignation, whereupon the premier, Baron Banffy arose to reply. For a time the uproar made his remarks mad tible. When he could make houself heard the premier denied that the government desired Di Szinagyi to make illegal use of the rules of the house and employ torce. Finally a resolution was adopted requesting Dr Szilagyi to withdraw his resignation have ready for general distribution the long expected Bismarck memoirs. The book bears the title "Bismarck, the Man and the Statesman, Being the Reflections and Reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, Written and Dictated by Himself After His Retirement from Office." It has been translated from the German under the supervision of A. J. Butler, late a fellow of Trinity college, Cambridge. The period covered is from 1832 to 1888. Thus it takes no account of the earlier or later days of the great chancellor.

At all points the memoirs will disappoint expectations. Toward the ladies of his entourage the old chancellor is less chivalrous. Of William I's wife the old chancellor writes: "Princess Augusta preserved from her youthful days at Weimar to her life's end the impression that French, and still more English, author ities and persons were superior to those of her own country. She was of true German blood in one way. In her was verified that national fashion most sharply expressed in the phrase, 'that does not come from afar, so, 'tis good for nothing.' A cocksure Frenchman with a voluble tongue imposed upon her, an Englishman had always the presumption on his side until the con trary was proved that he was to be treated in Germany as a superior per-

It was on Aug. 5, 1855, that Bismarck first met Queen Victoria and Prince Albert at a state ball given in describes the prince as looking handsome and cool in his black uniform. Though he conversed courteously with the Prussian embassador, there was in his manner "a kind of malevolent curiwas not unknown to him. In accordance therefore quite reasonable. with the mode of thought peculiar to conduct, not where they really laythat is, in the anxiety to keep my country independent of foreign influences, influences which found a fertile soil in our narrow minded reverence for England and fear of France and in the desire to hold ourselves aloof from a war which we should not have carried on in our own interests-but in dependence upon Austrian and English policy." In Bismarck appeared as a reactionary party man who had taken up sides for Russia during the Crimean imbroglio in order to further an absolutist and 'junker' policy. Of Queen Victoria he simply says that she spoke to him at the same ball in German and apparently looked upon him as a noteworthy but tone of voice was without that touch of ironical superiority that I thought I detected in Prince Albert's. She continued to be amiable and courteous, like one Bismarck was the chief agency in having the regency placed in the hands of the king's brother, who ultimately succeeded him as William I. Messrs. Harper & Bros. will soon In his antagonism to petticoat government Bismarck had found a stout ally in Gustav von Alvensleben, afterward leader of the Fourth corps at Beaumont and Sedan. Indeed that bluff soldier frequently vented his opinion, even before William himself, "In words that I ed at the grandson who was guilty of do not want to repeat, but that expressed all the indignation of a patriotic soldier over ladies playing at politics in language that very nearly came within the penal statutes.'

Von Alvensleben also shared Bismarck's opinion as to the necessity of a Frederick William as Emperor Fredfinal settlement of the rivalry between Prussia and Austria on the field of battle. "When I incidentally asked him his opinion as to the issue of a first pitched battle between us and the Aus-

The battle of Koniggratz justified the laid plans of Napoleon III. He had preserved neutrality in the hope that Prussia would be defeated and in need of assistance. Now he threatened to interfere in favor of Austria. Bismarck's counsels were all for moderation with Aus-He well knew that if Prussia followed up her advantage by crushing Austria she would make an inveterate enemy of the latter and bring down upon herself an immediate war with France. Both contingencies must be avoided. Hence he advised King William to make peace on the basis of the territorial integrity of Austria.

But at first Bismarck found himself was jealous of the president minister and bitterly opposed to his views. Bisheard the voice of the crown prince saying: "You know that I was against this war. You considered it necessary, and the responsibility for it lies upon you. If you are now persuaded that our end is attained and peace must now be concluded, I am ready to support you and defend your opinion with my father."

He then repaired to the king, and in a short half hour returned with the following rather ungracious concession penciled on the leaf of a notebook: 'Inasmuch as my minister president has left me in the lurch in the face of the enemy, and here I am not able to supply his place, I have discussed the question with my son, and as he has associated himself with the minister president's opinion I find myself reluctantly compelled, after such brilliant victories, to bite the sour apple and accept so disgraceful a peace.'

Peace brought with it a postponement of the war with France. But Bismarck well knew that it was only a postponement. At no time, he tells us, did he regard such a war as a simple matter, considered quite apart from the possible allies that France might find in Ausbonor of the former at Versailles. He tria's thirst for revenge or in Russia's desire for a balance of power. Bismarck adds that it was personal him, he sought for the motives of my love for William I, not his own general conception of the relation of a king by the grace of God to his servants, which enabled him to endure occasional injustice at the royal hands without feelings of indignation. But "the extent of monarchical devotion is not identical as regards every prince. It makes a difference whether the limit is drawn by political understanding or by feeling. A certain measure of devotion is detershort, in the eyes of the prince consort mined by the laws, a still greater by political conviction. Anything beyond that requires a personal feeling of reciprocity, and this it is which brings it about that loyal masters have loyal servants, whose devotion extends beyond what is required by public considerations. He was too distinguished to feel like a nobleman who cannot endure to have a rich and independent peasant in the village. #### TO LIBERATE IRELAND.

Novel Plan Suggested to the President by a Chicago Man.

The president receives an average of 1.700 letters a day. One-half of them ask favors of one kind or another. The other half offer advice on every subject under the sun, or express their approval or disapproval of executive acts and policy. Just now the question of expansion suggests the topic for most of the letters, and 98 per cent of them approve

The president has received a novel suggestion from George T. Dougherty of Chicago, who says: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free. Now we have it in our flower to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war. That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine islands, which we may offer to ever covetous England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves of what may turn out to be a white elephant. This is a golden opportunity for President McKinley to undertake such a deal and cover himself and the American people with glory. McKinlev's ancestors were Irish, and his greatgranduncle, Francis McKinley, was shot down by the British soldiers as an Irish rebel after a farcical court martial about 100 years ago.'

Mr. Dougherty declares that if Ireland were free it would make a most mighty nation and a leader of civilization the world over. "As yet," he says. "the Irish people, in spite of distress and suffering for ages, are physically the most powerful and athletic and the quickest witted race in the world, and virtuous of any nationality on earth." William E. Curtis in Chicago Record.

FAST MAIL CARRIER.

Pneumatic Tube Which Carries Letters Forty Miles an Hour.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently inspected a pneumatic tube device invented by B C Batcheller, who perfected the dynamite guns used on the Vesuvius. The exhibition took place at the Astor place branch of the New York postoffice, an intermediate station.

By Mr. Batcheller's invention a mail carrier the size of an eight inch shell and weighing 25 pounds, which is burled through the tube running from the general postoffice to the Grand Central depot can be caught by sensitive electric fingers, switched aside to its proper substation, and there deposited on the receiving table as gently as though it had not just been traveling 40 miles an hour

These electric fingers, too, recognize the carriers which belong to their respective stations and let the others pass by. This is done by means of disks of varying diameters on the head of the carrier. When a carrier is switched aside to a substation, it strikes an air cushion which breaks its force and is then gently discharged into the receiver This most intelligent machine forces the carriers to keep their proper distance apart by means of a time lock When the vehicles have been emptied, they are returned to the starting place -New York World.

MISS WILLARD'S MEMORIAL.

Move to Make the Chiengo Temple Her Monument.

The Chicago temple trustees recently finished a two days' meeting, at the close of which Mrs. Matilda B. Carse, president of the board of trustees, gave out a public statement, in which she said that the trustees had decided to make the temple a monument to the life and work of the late Miss Frances Willard To this end Willard memorial circles will be formed all over the country, the purpose being to raise sufficient money to enable the temple trustees to buy all the outstanding stock and bonds held by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Building association.

The constitution for these circles provides that each member shall pay $1 per year, which shall go into the fund sexes and all ages are eligible to mem- them when they are ripe.

A man in the darkness of hopeless disease is of all men most miserable. When doctors and medicines innumerable have been tried and found wanting, and loving friends vainly urge upon him the food he cannot eat and which brings him no nour-ishment or strength, what is to be done?

Men and women who have sunken se far into weakness and disease that the whole body seems to be permeated and poisoned by it have found health, strength and vigor through the transforming, electrifying power of that wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" which Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., proffered, thirty years ago, to sick and suffering hu manity.

During all the years since then this marvelous "Discovery" has been building up weak and debilitated constitutions by its extraordinary influence upon the human, nutritive system. It gives the digestive organism keen power and capacity to appropriate every life-giving element from the food taken into the stomach and transforms it into rich, highly vitalized blood and healthy flesh, bone, sinew and nerve

Consumption in all its earlier stages is arrested and counteracted by the tissuebuilding, flesh-making, life-promoting power of this grand medicine and there is no darkness of bodily ailment so dense but it will shed upon the sufferer the light of renewed hope.

When They Appeared Before Mayor Rough This Morning He Gave Them Five Minutes to Leave Under Penalty of . Workhouse Sentence,

Yesterday afternoon Officer McMilan arrested and took to jail two colered women, whom he found in Drury tane near Peach alley. They were so drunk that they did not know their names and the officer had all he could do to land them in jail. When the officer put them in cell No 3 he did not care to search them owing to their condition. It was not long until they were asleep. They did not awaken until after 7 o'clock, at which time aupper was brought to them. An attempt was made to learn their names, but this was unsuccessful. Their condition was worse than when they were brought in. Chief Johnson, when he learned this, made an investigation and found that they had concealed a half-pint bottle of whiskey in the beding. This was taken from them, and this morning when they were brought before the mayor they were entirely sobered. They gave their names as being Malissa Lewis and Sarah Suckers. They would not tell their right names, but the fact that they are married and have different names is known to the police. They were given five minutes to get out of town or take six months to the works. They started for their homes near Georgetown.

The record of arresting women by officers is as follows: White, 1; Mc-Millan, 2; Grim. 3.

Chief Johnson is determined to break up the practice of children riding on the sidewalks, and yesterday aftercoon several sleds were brought to city hall as a result.

No complaints were filed yesterday, and the jail is once more vacant.

CROP REPORT.

Wheat Is Away Up While Other Products Are Not so Good.

The official crop report of the Ohio department of agriculture has been made for the month of November, which shows that wheat, as compared with an average, was 100 per cent. Of this, 14 per cent was sold as soon as threshed and 6 per cent was damaged while growing. The estimated area of corn for the year was 2.954,564 acres, or an estimated average yield of 38 bushels to the acre. Of the land that was sown in clover but 14 per cent of it was cut for seed. The total yield of apples, as compared with an average, was but 9 per cent. The estimated area for the year on potatoes was 117.341 acres. The estimated product of tobacco per acre was $33 pounds. The cattle being fed for the spring market, as compared with last year, was 32 per cent. The sheep was the same.

FINE COASTING,

But It Is Not Pleasant For Pedestrians.

Some of the hill streets are in splendid condition for coasting, and last night scores of youngsters enjoyed the sport. Avondale street was filled until a late hour, it being one of the best tracks in the city. Pedestrians, however, did not enjoy the sport, and although no accidents are reported there were many narrow escapes.

"If every small boy is allowed to use the streets and pavements of the city as coasting ground they should be compelled to put bicycle lamps on their sleds," said a well-known resident today. "In that way the city may be saved a damage action."

One-fifth of the United States' Entire

The report of the secretary of the interior shows that one-fifth of the entire population of the United States is in school-the total being 16,225,093, although the total average schooling enjoyed by the people of the United States does not equal more than 1,000 days for each inhabitant.

Of recent years there has been a large increase in the number of students in colleges and universities. The total in 1871 was 88,864, and in 1898 was 217,-763. In 1872 the proportion was 590 students to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. In 1898 it was 1,216 to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. Considering that the standard of admission to colleges has been considerably raised during that period, Secretary Bliss estimates the number of students at colleges and universities is three times greater than it was 25 years ago and that the number pursuing postgraduate courses is 25 times as large as it was in 1872.

item shows the expenditure per capita, of population for public schools has been gradually increased from $1.75 in 1871 to $2.62 in 1898, while the expenditure per pupil per year has increased from $15.20 to $18.57. Te Rerea, a confessed wizard, was accused of causing the death of many natives by witchcraft, and Father Te Ehan was sent for. Among those whom Te Rerea, as alleged, had killed by witchcraft was one Marita, a young girl. Arriving at the scene of the trouble, the priest called on Te Rerea, who acknowledged that he had killed care Naws Environ.

Marita, but no one else. Te Ehau told Te Rerea he would save him this time, but that if he killed more people he would himself die and be torn to pieces in hell. The king's confessor then ordered the coffin of the dead girl, Marita. to be brought into the street. Thousands of people were present when this was done. A mass of humanity watched the proceedings.

Te Ehau shouted in a loud voice to the mourners to stop weeping, that Marita would be restored to them. He then placed his hands on the girl's forehead and, performing some incantation, told her to rise, which she did, to the astonishment of all present. The Maoris are frantic with joy and are showering presents on the priest. The authorities have investigated the matter and severely questioned Marita, who says she has been in heaven. A Man Whose Broken Leg Was Set by a Doctor Wants Heavy Damages for Alleged Malpractice, While the Physician Lays the Blame on His Patient.

LISBON, Dec. 8 - [Special] - In the case of Wing & Evans against the Specialty Glass Co., of Liverpool, the jury found a verdict of $6.54 for the plaintiff. Wing & Evans sued for $1,080 for material.

Scott Robinson against Daniel Mc-Curdy, was the title of a case in which the defendant offered to confess judgment for $2.50 and pay the costs. It was accepted. Robinson originally sued for $29.10 before Justice Lyon, of Palestine.

The case of Tirza Flifogle against Dr. Frank M. King will be heard in common pleas court today. He alleges that on Nov. 5, 1897, he broke his left leg above his knee, and employed the defendant to attend him. It was so negligently and unprofessionally done, he says, that the leg has become permanently weak and crooked and three inches shorter than the other. He asks for $7,000 damages.

The defendant claims that he attended the plaintiff properly, but he was guilty of gross negligence and carelessness in failing to follow the directions and advice of the doctor. P. C. Young and J. #### Seeing a Bullet In Flight.

"As every sportsman knows," said an enthusiastic New Orleans hunter, "it is easy to see a rifle bullet in the ment. air, and those fired from the new high power guns are very curious to look at. Stand a dozen yards at one side of the range with a small caliber weapon using smokeless powder, and you'll see a strange, bluish white streak the instant the bullet strikes home. The streak is apparently a couple of inches wide and several feet long and is more I can think of.

"With the old fashioned Remington or Springfield carbine the bullet has the appearance of a long black rod, and I don't know why there should be such a difference in the optical illusion produced by the smaller caliber. I have heard some people deny that the bullet can be seen, but they are very much in error. It all depends on getting the right viewpoint. A few feet either way will render the missile invisible, but the right spot is soon found by experiment, and after that the thing is as plain as day "-New Orleans Times-Democrat

Big Men and Big Noses.

Cyrano de Bergerac is remembered because of his large nose. Few know that he was a poet, and fewer still know his poetry The nose is a conspicuous feature of history The length of Cleopatra's is said to have figured in Roman politics, and a scandal grew out of it which ended in the ruin and death of Antony and the establishment of an empire which lasted a thousand years Napoleon would not promote a man who had not a large nose. He himself was well favored in this respect. Cæsar was "the hook nosed Roman,"

All American statesmen have been noted for this feature. Old men tell of our own Benton, who used to shake his nose like an elephant's proboscis when he got excited. It seems to be the law that all great men have great noses, but let no one think that the converse of this is true, that all men who have great noses are great men. Such a conclusion would lead to confusion and needless pain and disappointment. -St Louis Post-Dispatch.

AND SLEPT IN THE CITY JAIL

When They Appeared Before Mayor Rough This Morning He Gave Them Five Minutes to Leave Under Penalty of . Workhouse Sentence.

Yesterday afternoon Officer McMilan arrested and took to jail two colered women, whom he found in Drury tane near Peach alley. They were so drunk that they did not know their names and the officer had all he could do to land them in jail. When the officer put them in cell No 3 he did not care to search them owing to their condition. It was not long until they were asleep. They did not awaken until after 7 o'clock, at which time supper was brought to them. An attempt was made to learn their names, but this was unsuccessful. Their condition was worse than when they were brought in. Chief Johnson, when he learned this, made an investigation and found that they had concealed a half-pint bottle of whiskey in the beding. This was taken from them, and this morning when they were brought before the mayor they were entirely sobered. They gave their names as being Malissa Lewis and Sarah Suckers. They would not tell their right names. but the fact that they are married and have different names is known to the police. They were given five minutes to get out of town or take six months to the works. They started for their homes near Georgetown.

The record of arresting women by officers is as follows: White, 1; Mc-Millan, 2 ; Grim, 3.

Chief Johnson is determined to break up the practice of children riding on the sidewalks, and yesterday afternoon several sleds were brought to city hall as a result.

No complaints were filed yesterday, and the jail is once more vacant.

One-fifth of the United States' Entire Population Is In School.

The report of the secretary of the interior shows that one-fifth of the entire population of the United States is in school—the total being 16,225,093, alestimated average yield of 38 bushels to though the total average schooling enthe acre. Of the land that was sown in joyed by the people of the United States does not equal more than 1,000 days for each inhabitant.

Of recent years there has been a large increase in the number of students in colleges and universities. The total in 1871 was 88,864, and in 1898 was 217.inhabitants. Considering that the standard of admission to colleges has been considerably raised during that period, Secretary Bliss estimates the number of students at colleges and universities is three times greater than it was 25 years ago and that the number pursuing postgraduate courses is 25 times as large as it was in 1872.

Another important and interesting item shows the expenditure per capita of population for public schools has iture per pupil per year bas increased from $15.20 to $18.57. The total expenditure for public schools in 1871 was oftener than you did "Yes, thank you." $69,107,612 and in 1897 it was $187,-320,602. The total number of pupils enrolled in the common schools has very nearly doubled during the last quarter in 1897, 14,652,492. The number of teachers employed in the public schools don Fun of the United States in 1871 was 220,-225, in 1897, 413, 343. A Priest Professes to Have Resurrected a Victim of Witcheraft.

New Zealand papers received at Vancouver, B. C., per steamship Miowera report great excitement among the Tauranga natives owing to the reported resurrection of a Maori girl by the Maori King Tonhugu or his father confessor, called Te Ehau. Te Rerea, a confessed wizard, was accused of causing the death of many natives by witchcraft, and Father Te Ehau was sent for. Among those whom Te Rerea, as alleged, had killed by witchcraft was one Marita, a young girl. Arriving at the scene of the trouble, the priest called on Te Rerea, who acknowledged that he had killed care Naws Baying.

Marita, but no one else. Te Ebau told Te Rerea he would save him this time, but that if he killed more people he would himself die and be torn to pieces in hell. The king's confessor then or dered the coffin of the dead girl, Marita to be brought into the street. Thousands of people were present when this was done. A mass of humanity watched the proceedings.

Te Ehau shouted in a loud voice to the mourners to stop weeping, that Marita would be restored to them. He then placed his hands on the girl's fore head and, performing some incantation, told her to rise, which she did, to the astonishment of all present. The Maoris are frantic with joy and are showering presents on the priest. The authorities have investigated the matter and severely questioned Marita, who says she has been in heaven. That the girl was about to be buried and would have been but for the arrival of the priest is vouched for by scores of white persons. An explanation of the strange happening is not yet forthcoming. The priest insists that any holy person can bring back the spirit of a person that has been chased away by witchcraft. - New York Sun.

THE Republicans of Ohio expect their congressional delegation to stand by President McKinley and support him to the last. They were elected on a platform that will not permit any honest man to deviate from that course.

TOM REED is a big man in brain and body, and until recently was popular with his colleagues in the house of representatives, but when congress assembled his entrance was not greeted with enthusiasm. So much for the influence of his anti-expansion views.

Ir there is to be any more investigation of the Spanish war the men who propose and support the question should be compelled to pay for it. The bills of the commission now at work will doubtless exceed the real value of the report. Investigations are always costly and usually unsatisfactory.

TRUE to his policy while the chief executive, Grover Cleveland still opposes the policy of expansion. It means that if he was president and the Democratic party was in power, the Stars and Stripes would be hauled down from their proud position above Manila as he once ordered them hauled down at Honolulu.

Ir the treaty with Spain follows closely on lines laid down by President McKinley the senate will ratify it. Patriotic feeling has run high in that body many times, and there are still among its members a sufficient number of strong men to stand with the man who has ever labored for the good of. the nation.

THE clause in the Hull bill which pro vides for an increase of 25 per cent in the pay of soldiers serving in tropical countries, will appeal to thousands of people, particularly to the veterans of the Spanish war. They know the difference between camp life in the north and real duty where scorching sun and drenching rain make life a burden.

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

Congress cannot afford to waste much time discussing the financial question if it is to look after the important duties already laid down. Then the people do not care much about that matter. No one seriously objects to affairs as they are except the silver men, and they are not in position to do damage at this time. The country is prosperous, and there seems to be no demand for currency reform. If congress will quietly settle down to transact the business absolutely needed it will give general patisfaction.

IN CHRISTMAS TOWN.

Quaint Holiday Customs In the Moravian Village of Bethlehem, Pa-

Christmas Town is in its glory on Christmas. Christmas Town is the old village in Pennsylvania which was named Bethlehem 157 years ago by Count Zinzendorf, head and founder of the Moravian faith. The count arrived in the settlement on Dec. 24, 1741. That evening he took a lighted candle and entered the stable belonging to the single tiny stone dwelling of the place, and then and there, with the smell of the hay about him, he named the town that was to be Bethlehem "Nicht Jerusalem, sondern Bethlehem." Every Christmas eve since then has had its "vigil." Every Moravian home has its Christmas tree, flanked by "putzen." A putz is a beautiful bit of indoor landscape gardening, with fuzzy white cotton for snow, and always a tiny stable of Bethlehem, with a doll Christ in a 6 inch manger, and doll Joseph, Mary and wise men standing by, while a tinsel star of the east shines with undiminish-

Three o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 24 finds every Moravian family in the great stone church, built in 1806. The pulpit and reading desk are concealed by a big picture of the nativity. Classical music of the utmost beauty is sung at the love feast service. It is special Moravian music, often sung from manuscript scores over 100 years old, which when not in use are kept in the great archive vaults of the church. Peals out the great chorus:

Laszt uns heute froh und selig bei der krippe Jesu sein: Den de Gnaden sind unzaelig die uns schenkt

CARNEGIE'S NEW HOME

To Build the Most Modest, Plainest and Most Roomy House In New York.

Andrew Carnegie admitted the other day that he was the purchaser of the two blocks, comprising 80 lots, of city realty in Fifth avenue between Ninetieth and Ninety-second streets, in New York. Charles A. Gould is also interest ed in the purchase to some extent. Mr Carnegie intends to build on the property not a "palace," he said, but "the most modest, plainest and most roomy house in New York." lie had bought the property, he said, because he wanted to live "alongside the park.

"This precious little life that has come to us needs the park and sunshine." said Mr. Carnegie, "and it is for these reasons that we not only have concurred in the advice of our physician, but deemed it a duty to move up to the highest ground and where there is plenty of room. As for building a grand palace, that is foreign to our tastes. Mr. Carnegie will build on the bloo between Ninetieth and Ninety-first streets. It was said recently by realty men concerned in his purchase that he intended to sell the northerly block of the two to purchasers who would be congenial neighbors, for improvement with private dwellings. The deeds for the whole, it was said, would be drawn in the name of Mrs. Carnegie.

Notice has been served on the lessee of the riding academy now occupying a part of the southerly plot to vacate the building within 60 days. The plot is to be brought to a level grade and sodded. so that when any part is sold and improved the unsold remainder can be maintained like a private park.-New York Tribune.

He Denies to War Investigators That There Was Any Influence In Routing of Troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- The war investigating commission examined several witnesses, including Paymaster General Stanton and Colonel Hecker, quartermaster in charge of transportation of the troops. Paymaster General Stanton testified that orders and requests were given him from those in command of the forces, asking that the pay of the volunteers be deferred until they should return to the United States, women and larger children return at 6 that being believed to be the wisest and for the "vigil." The church is ablaze most judicious course. Pay was withheid in Cuba on the order of Major the troops in Porto Rico either on orders or requests of several commanders.

Colonel Hecker, who had just returned from Cuba, was examined in detail as to the charters and purchases of vessels by the war department. He said between June 20 and July 25 he purchased 17 vessels on the authority of the secretary of war. He found 90 per cent of the vessels offered wholly unsuited. "The prices paid," he insisted, "would have been a fair value under ordinary circumstances." He said further there was not a single instance where any influence outside the government and the contracting parties could have been used in the purchases. "Was there any possibility for any third party to be benefited by these sales?

"In the cases of the Port Victor and the Scandia there certainly was," was the reply. "To what extent, however,

I can't tell." Queried as to the railway contracts he interjected that it was not he but the railways that "controlled the rates, as they charged more than they ought to have received. He referred to transportation arrangements between Chickamauga and Newport News and said better rates had been obtained by let-

Francis Kossuth, in behalf of his party, and Palonyi, for the Independents, proposed that no cognizance be taken of Dr. Szilagyi's resignation, whereupon the premier, Baron Banffy arose to reply. For a time the uproar made his remarks mad tible. When he could make houself heard the premie denied that the government desired Di Sziragyi to make illegal use of the rules of the house and employ torce. Finally a resolution was adopted requesting Dr

Officers Will Not Be Chosen Without a Contest, There Being a Number of Caudidates--Columbus Is After the Next Meet-

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 7.-[Special ]-The second annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor and the fifteenth annual convention of the State Trades and Labor assembly of Ohio, is in session at Union Labor hall, this place. One hundred delegates were present when President T. L. Lewis' gavel fell. Will R. Gallagher, Zanesville, introduced Mayor L. H. Gibson, who welcomed the visitors in a brief speech, to which President Lewis responded.

The morning was taken up by the organization of the convention. The afternoon session was devoted to general business. Last evening the visiting delegates were the guests of the local union at an open meeting, which was followed by a social session. The convention will be in session for several days. The election of officers promises to be sharply contested. There is strong opposition to President Lawis' re-election and Secretary August Smith, of Toledo, has a strong opponent in Joseph A. Bauer, secretary of the local Central Trades and Labor council and Federal Labor union. The fight for the next convention is keen. Zanesville wants it a second time and there are half a dozen other competitors. The general belief is that Columbus will get the plum.

NO TRUUBLE TO TRAVEL.

Train Comforts of Today Make Journeys Enjoyable.

Contrast railway transportation facilities of the present with those of the pioneer days of railroading. The period does not extend beyond the span of a life, and persons are now living who have seen the wonderful evolution which has marked all phases of the subject. The carofully kept rock-ballasted roadbed and heavy steel rails of the Pennsylvania Lines, and the smoothrunning, comfortable cars with luxurious home comforts, must stand out boldly as wonderful progress manifested by one generation when compared to train facilities when railroading was in its infancy. The running time of trains also shows a great advancement. Then weeks and months were required for a trip from New York, Philadelphia or Harrisburg to Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. Now it is a matter of hours merely, and very few at that, for such a journey, which can be made over the Pennsylvania Lines without even stepping from the train, palatable meals being served en route and restful alumber enjoyed in luxurious sleeping cars while being whirled through space at a rapid rate.

American Woman's Novel Experience at the San Juan Bombardment.

A singular incident was told by Mrs. The Zanesville Meeting Is de Muro, daughter of George Buttler of New Brunswick, N. J., at an entertainment given at the residence of Mrs. John Waldron, in that city recently. It MAYOR was relative to the recent Spanish-American war, upon which she talked for the benefit of the Young People's Missionary guild of the First Reformed church.

Mrs de Muro is an American and the wife of Senor Ruperto de Muro, a director of the Territorial and Agricultural Bank of Porto Rico. During the war she and her husband agreed not to discuss the matter. "It was a difficult task," said Mrs. de Muro, "especially when callers came in the evening and talked of the conflict. They took it for granted that I did not approve of my countrymen's action, but I always undeceived them. It vexed me when they said the Maine disaster was the result of an accident, and the ship's officers were out dining that night.'

She also spoke of the bombardment of San Juan, her residence being very near the San Cristobal fort. It occurred on May 12, and the town was thrown into confusion. People fell dead from terror Some of the shells had "12" marked on them, and the Porto Ricans thought this implied that May 12 had been fixed for the bombardment. Frequently her home was surrounded by soldiers, who had been aroused by rumors of an American expedition.

"The most exciting event of my life, said Mrs. de Muro, "was the attack made by Captain Sigsbee with the St Paul upon the Terror. I witnessed the fight from my front veranda. It lasted for some time, and the St. Paul's shells fairly rained upon the destroyer." She also witnessed the attack made by the New Orleans and Cincinnati upon the Spanish steamer Antonio Lopez, which they destroyed Before the war ended Mrs. de Muro fled into the interior to the plantation of her uncle. - New York Journal.

NEED FOR DRYDOCKS.

The Baltimore's Speed Reduced About One-half by Accumulations.

The Baltimore has recently been docked at Hongkong, and the report of the docking contains an interesting feature. The ship had not been in dock previously since April 24, and since that date the vessel had been almost continuously in the harbor of Manila.

The report received at the navy de partment states that the bottom of the ship was completely covered with a bard substance, limelike in quality, resem bling a coral formation It did not resist the efforts of the cleaners and yielded readily to the scraping. It was found that the steel plates of the hull were not injured and that even the paint was not disturbed. It was expected from the appearance of the bull to find the plates badly pitted, and that the paint would be removed with the substance. The effect of this accumulation on the hull was that the speed of the vessel was reduced about one-half, a result which would have proved disastrous in time of war, when it would be important to keep clean bottoms if the enemy was to be successfully chased.

This incident shows the necessity for docking facilities on the Asiatic station. At present our ships must resort to the British dockyards, which may not always be accessible. There is no dock at Manila, where the shops supported by the Spanish government are filled with old tools and exhibit unmistakable signs of neglect and abuse. The navy department will urge that means of docking and cleaning and repairing our warships in the far east be afforded by congress With the acquisition of the Philippines and the enlargement of American interests in the Pacific and in Asia, it has become imperative, naval officers assert, that the United States possess its own dock, capable of accommodating the large ships likely to be part of the Asiatio squadron. - Baltimore Sun

Philadelphia Social Leaders Make It Two In the Morning.

WILL CLOSE BALLS AT THAT HOUR.

Dinners Before the Dancing Class to Be at Half Past Seven-Some of the Views Expressed-Only One Negative Vote In a Hundred For the Plan to Get More Sleep.

More than 100 women prominent in Philadelphia society, who have been aroused to take united action by the Surplus, necessity for holding entertainments at earlier hours, met the other afternoon at the Acorn club, in Walnut street. It General Banking Business was decided that ladies giving dinners on the evenings dancing classes are held should send out their invitations for half past 7 o'clock, so that their guests may go directly afterward to the dancing classes, arriving there by half past 9 o'clock.

Another means to encourage earlier hours was the adoption of a resolution making it a matter of etiquette to go to a ball not less than an hour after the time named in the invitation. The meeting unanimously expressed its opinion that the hour for closing a ball should be 2 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. W. W. Frazier said she thought the mothers were the ones to decide the question. She expressed herself as heartily in favor of the movement. Mrs. Robert W. Leslie said if the men could be induced to agree to the change the rest would be easily accomplished.

Mrs. John Cadwalader approved of earlier hours for entertainments, but thought it would not be well too limit the hours, thus telling guests when to go. The general movement in favor of earlier hours, she thought, would soon result in bringing them about.

"We cannot dictate to people at what hour they shall dine or go to bed," remarked Mrs. Edward Coles, "but something should be done to secure an earlier attendance at balls, thus making it much easier for those who are obliged to stand for hours. There is no rest for these weary ones before the ball."

"If dinners were at half past 7," said Mrs. William Platt Pepper, "the dreadful period between half past 10 and 12 o'clock would be bridged and dinner would be more brilliant, for everybody would be in full dress. Last winter I went to several balls at about half past 11 and found about two people in the ballroom. I think it a senseless thing. People could dine just as well at half past 7 and get to the balls early."

Mrs. Frederick T. Mason, who has charge of the Monday night dancing class, said: "If the mothers would see that their daughters are at the dancing class at half past 9, I will see that it i closed at half past 12." "It all depends on the men coming early!" shouted one of the ladies in the assemblage. "If the girls come early," replied Mrs. Charles Curtis Harrison, "you can depend upon their drawing the men early. All in favor of earlier hours please say 'Aye.' "

"Aye," responded 100 voices, and only one nay was heard. "Delightful!" said Mrs. Harrison. "The next question is how we can get earlier hours. Mrs. Coles has said she did not think we could dicrate when a ball should be

Mrs. A. J. Cassatt said the committees of several of the midwinter balls, including the Benedicts, had approved of their earlier hours and would do all in their power to advance the cause. Mrs. Owen Jones Wister announced on behalf of the assembly committee that steps were being taken to begin the as sembly balls at an earlier hour. Mrs. Frazier remarked that a fixed hour for closing would regulate the difficulty. Mrs. Clement A. Griscom expressed approval of closing balls earlier.

"I don't think any of us giving a ball would like to say when our friends should go away," said Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel. "But if they got there at half past 10, the ball would naturally close earlier." At the close of the meet ing the ladies all seemed well satisfied at the decisive action they had taken. -New York Herald.

The other day a young man at Albert Park, Victoria, N. S. W., took up a revolver from a friend's mantelshelf with which to hammer a tack into the wall. The revolver was loaded and went off. The ball cut a thin gold ring from the man's little finger, tore through his trousers, struck on some silver he had in his pocket, ricochetted and pierced the toe of his boot. Result: Damage to trousers and boot and one broken ring The man did not suffer to the extent of a pin prick. Moral: Always carry some money in your pockets. - Sydney Bulle-

IN CHRISTMAS TOWN

Quaint Holiday Customs In the Moravian Village of Bethlehem, Pa.

Christmas Town is in its glory on Christmas Town is in its glory on Christmas. Christmas Town is the old village in Pennsylvania which was named Bethlehem 157 years ago by Count Zinzendorf, head and founder of the Moravian faith. The count arrived in the settlement on Dec. 24, 1741. That evening he took a lighted candle and entered the stable belonging to the single tiny stone dwelling of the place, and then and there, with the smell of the hay about him, he named the town that hav about him, he named the town that was to be Bethlehem "Nicht Jerusalem, sondern Bethlehem." Every Christmas eve since then has had its "vigil." Every Moravian home has its Christmas tree, flanked by "putzen." A putz is a beautiful bit of indoor landscape garson, was driving along the north side of dening, with fuzzy white cotton for snow, and always a tiny stable of Bethlehem, with a doll Christ in a 6 inch manger, and doll Joseph, Mary and wise men standing by, while a tinsel star of the east shines with undiminish-

To Build the Most Modest, Plainest and Most Roomy House In New York.

Andrew Carnegie admitted the other day that he was the purchaser of the two blocks, comprising 80 lots, of city realty in Fifth avenue between Ninetieth and Ninety-second streets, in New York. Charles A. Gould is also interest ed in the purchase to some extent. Mr Carnegie intends to build on the property not a "palace," he said, but "the most modest, plainest and most roomy house in New York." He had bought the property, he said, because he wanted to live "alongside the park.

"This precious little life that has come to us needs the park and sunshine." said Mr. Carnegie, "and it is for these reasons that we not only have concurred in the advice of our physician. but deemed it a duty to move up to the highest ground and where there is plenty of room. As for building a grand palace, that is foreign to our tastes. Mr. Carnegie will build on the blos between Ninetieth and Ninety-first streets. It was said recently by realty men concerned in his purchase that he intended to sell the northerly block of the two to purchasers who would be congenial neighbors, for improvement with private dwellings. The deeds for the whole, it was said, would be drawn in the name of Mrs. Carnegie.

Notice has been served on the lessee of the riding academy now occupying a part of the southerly plot to vacate the building within 60 days. The plot is to be brought to a level grade and sodded, so that when any part is sold and improved the ansold remainder can be maintained like a private park .- New York Tribune.

COL HECKER TESTIFIES.

He Denies to War Investigators That There Was Any Influence In Routing of Troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.-The war investigating commission examined several witnesses, including Paymaster General Stanton and Colonel Hecker, quartermaster in charge of transportation of the troops. Paymaster General Stanton testified that orders and requests were given him from those in command of the forces, asking that the pay of the volunteers be deferred until they should return to the United States, women and larger children return at 6 that being believed to be the wisest and most judicious course. Pay was withheld in Cuba on the order of Major General Miles, he thought, and from the troops in Porto Rico either on orders or requests of several commanders.

Colonel Hecker, who had just returned from Cuba, was examined in detail as to the charters and purchases of vessels by the war department. He said between June 20 and July 25 he purchased 17 vessels on the authority of the secretary of war. He found 90 per cent of the vessels offered wholly unsuited.

"The prices paid," he insisted, "would have been a fair value under ordinary circumstances." He said further there was not a single instance where any influence outside the government and the contracting parties could have been used in the purchases.

"Was there any possibility for any third party to be benefited by these sales?

"In the cases of the Port Victor and the Scandia there certainly was," was the reply. "To what extent, however, I can't tell."

Queried as to the railway contracts he interjected that it was not he but the railways that "controlled the rates. as they charged more than they ought to have received. He referred to transportation arrangements between Chickamauga and Newport News and said better rates had been obtained by letting these contracts in this city, the tariff having been reduced from $13 to $8 per man for the same service.

Colonel Hecker made an emphatic denial that there was any "influence" in "routing" the troops on the several

A HUNGARIAN CRISIS.

Resignation Presented to the Diet to Budap st Causes an Uproar.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 8 .- In the lower house of rhe Hungarian diet some noisy scenes occurred. The letter of Dr. D. de Szilagvi, president of the chamber of deputies, announcing his resignation, was read and Dr. L. Ling, one of the vice presidents, personally announced his resignation.

Francis Kossuth, in behalf of his party, and Palonyi, for the Independents, proposed that no cognizance be taken of Dr. Szilagyi's resignation, whereupon the premier, Baron Banffy, arose to reply. For a time the uproas made his remarks mad tible. When he could make houself heard the premier denied that the government desired D Szingyi to make illegal use of the rules of the house and employ torce. Finally a resolution was adopted requesting Dr Szilagyi to withdraw his resignation.

The reference to the employment of force in the e sarks of the Hungarisu premier apparently refers to the alleged intention of Baron Bandy to carry on the government next year by decrees owing to the tailure of Austro-Hungary to come to a satisfactory arrangement for the government of the dual monarchy.

It was also decided to publish a newspaper in the interest of the union and to advocate reforms in the treatment of female servants.

Before relating the effect of the Domestics' union in Christiania it is have now sprung up all over the Scandinavian countries, principally in Nor spread into Germany, Austria, Eng-October a convention was held at Vienna, when some 50 delegates from decided before forming a general society. to send two delegates to America to secure the support of the women servants in America. The two delegates that have started are Miss Ida Christoffersen. a Norwegian, and Henrietta Maller, a Danish woman, who also speak the German language.

In Europe the movement has secured the earnest support of the labor unions and the proposition will be made to admit these domestics' unions on equal terms into the European labor unions. The expenses of the Vienna convention and the American delegates are paid by the European labor unions. How the American labor unions will act in this matter or if the women servants' dele gates come to America with their sanction is a matter of conjecture, the German and Scandinavian newspapers in their report of the convention merely hinting that the delegates will be welcomed by the American labor unions. And now, to return to the Norwegian Domestics' union, the immediate result was the organization of employers' unions, binding themselves not to employ a servant who was a member of the Domestics' union, and similar employers' unions were formed in other European cities, but the employers, to their sorrow, found that to carry out their resolution was almost an impossibility. Neither have the servants sought to have their demands fulfilled by a general strike. By mutual consent a truce has been entered into, the employers glad of the delay, while the servants are no doubt following out the plan of some secret councilors to first strengthen themselves and enroll every servant in Europe in their organization before making their demands.

The conditions of the woman servants of Europe are little understood in this country. Long hours, hard work, coarse food, comfort in the American sense of the word almost unknown, and as to wages $25 per year is the average pay of women servants, even the higher or upper servants in England getting very little above this sum. A separate room for the maidservant is almost unknown. In most households she is considered a household article that can be provided for anywhere. She has in most cases only a cold, uncomfortable garret or a bunk in the kitchen. Her feelings are not considered. In fact, she is not expected to have any feelings. She is a drudge, and still she is expected to always be neatly dressed, to cook, to be within call any bour during the night or day, a machine always ready for use. America is the Mecca for the woman servants of Europe, and the reports coming from here to the friends still in the European bondage of the large wages, easy work, good treatment and short hours make them, of course, feel discontented. Norwegian women are highly intelligent, the absence of a titled aristocratic class gives them more independence of manner and thought, and it is no surprise that this social revolution has started in Norway. While every one must sympathize with the European woman servant's condition, and the attempt she may make to improve it, the proposition to introduce the movement among the woman servants in America must by every fair minded man or woman be condemned. No servants in the world are treated more liberally, more humanely than the domestic servants in our American houses. - Chicago

A Number of Witnesses Before the Grand Jury.

For Consideration at This Sitting, Because the Last Indictment Was Thrown Out on a Technicality-Other Persons Charged Are In Jail.

LISBON, Dec. 8.- Special - The special grand jury is in session today considering a number of cases.

The jury will only look after such persons as are now confined in the county jail, those who are under bond being reserved for the next regular jury. The only exception to this arrangement of Prosecutor Brookes is Lon Fogo, late superintendent of the Wellsville water works. He was indicted by the last grand jury, but the case was thrown out on a technicality.

The most important case is that of Theodore Pryor who is charged with the murder of Henry Clark, a negro deckhand of the steamboat Ben Hur while it was tied to the wharf at Liverpool. A number of witnesses from that place are here, and the deckhands who have been in jail, being held as witnesses, also testified.

A Man Whose Broken Leg Was Set by a Doctor Wants Heavy Damages for Alleged Malpractice, While the Physician Lays the Blame on His Patient.

LISBON, Dec. 8 - [Special]-In the case of Wing & Evans against the Specialty Glass Co., of Liverpool, the jury found a verdict of $6.54 for the plaintiff. Wing & Evans sued for $1,080 for material.

Scott Robinson against Daniel Mc-Curdy, was the title of a case in which the defendant offered to confess judgment for $2.50 and pay the costs. It was accepted. Robinson originally sued for $29.10 before Justice Lyon, of Palestine.

The case of Tirza Flifogle against Dr. Frank M. King will be heard in common pleas court today. He alleges that on Nov. 5, 1897, he broke his left leg above his knee, and employed the defendant to attend him. It was so negligently and unprofessionally done, he says, that the leg has become permanently weak and crooked and three inches shorter than the other. He asks for $7,000 damages.

The defendant claims that he attended the plaintiff properly, but he was guilty of gross negligence and carelessness in failing to follow the directions and advice of the doctor. P. C. Young and J. The streak is apparently a couple of inches wide and several feet long and is more I can think of.

"With the old fashioned Remington or Springfield carbine the bullet has the appearance of a long black rod, and I don't know why there should be such a difference in the optical illusion produced by the smaller caliber. I have heard some people deny that the bullet can be seen, but they are very much in error. It all depends on getting the right viewpoint. A few feet either way will render the missile invisible, but the right spot is soon found by experiment, and after that the thing is as plain as day "-New Orleans Times-Democrat

Big Men and Big Noses.

Cyrano de Bergerac is remembered because of his large nose. Few know that he was a poet, and fewer still know his poetry The nose is a conspicuous feature of history The length of Cleopatra's is said to have figured in Roman politics, and a scandal grew out of it which ended in the ruin and death of Antony and the establishment of an empire which lasted a thousand years Napoleon would not promote a man who had not a large nose. He himself was well favored in this respect. Cæsar was "the hook nosed Roman,"

All American statesmen bave been noted for this feature. Old men tell of our own Benton, who used to shake his nose like an elephant's proboscis when he got excited. It seems to be the law that all great men have great noses. but let no one think that the converse of this is true, that all men who have great noses are great men. Such a conclusion would lead to confusion and needless pain and disappointment.—St Louis Post-Dispatch.

Evening Dress In Kansas City.

The dress suit is the most democratic raiment in the world. It meets the requirements of good form, whether it was made six years ago or last month. Attired in evening costume, whether the swallowtails are long or short, nar row or wide, all men look, practically speaking, alike, whether they are wage earners or millionaires. The dress suit levels all distinctions and illustrates the potentiality of a correct style. The young man who has made a good selection in his rented broadcloth serenely greets his wealthy rival who has paid for his.London clothes a price like $250. How the fame of this world grows small when wrapped in a swallowtail coat among many others of the same cut! Officers Will Not Be Chosen Without s Contest, There Being a Number of Candidates -- Columbus Is After the Next Meet-

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 7.-[Special ]-The second annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor and the fifteenth annual convention of the State Trades and Labor assembly of Ohio, is in session at Union Labor hall, this place. One hundred delegates were present when President T. L. Lewis' gavel fell. Will R. Gallagher, Zanesville, introduced Mayor L. H. Gibson, who welcomed the visitors in a brief speech, to which President Lewis responded.

The morning was taken up by the organization of the convention. The afternoon session was devoted to general business. Last evening the visiting delegates were the guests of the local union at an open meeting, which was followed by a social session. The convention will be in session for several days. The election of officers promises to be sharply contested. There is strong opposition to President Lewis' re-election and Secretary August Smith, of Toledo, has a strong opponent in Joseph A. Bauer, secretary of the local Central Trades and Labor council and Federal Labor union. The fight for the next convention is keen. Zanesville wants it a second time and there are half a dozen other competitors. The general belief is that Columbus will get the plum.

American Woman's Novel Experience at the San Juan Bombardment.

A singular incident was told by Mrs. Zanesville Meeting Is de Muro, daughter of George Buttler of New Brunswick, N. J., at an entertainment given at the residence of Mrs. John Waldron, in that city recently. It was relative to the recent Spanish-American war, upon which she talked for the benefit of the Young People's Missionary guild of the First Reformed

Mrs de Muro is an American and the wife of Senor Ruperto de Muro, a director of the Territorial and Agricultural Bank of Porto Rico. During the war she and her husband agreed not to discuss the matter. "It was a difficult task," said Mrs. de Muro, "especially when callers came in the evening and talked of the conflict. They took it for granted that I did not approve of my countrymen's action, but I always undeceived them. It vexed me when they said the Maine disaster was the result of an accident, and the ship's officers were out dining that night.

She also spoke of the bombardment of San Juan, her residence being very near the San Cristobal fort. It occurred on May 12, and the town was thrown into confusion. People fell dead from terror Some of the shells had "12" marked on them, and the Porto Ricans thought this implied that May 12 had been fixed for the bombardment. Frequently her home was surrounded by soldiers, who had been aroused by rumors of an American expedition.

"The most exciting event of my life, said Mrs. de Muro, "was the attack made by Captain Sigsbee with the St Paul upon the Terror. I witnessed the fight from my front veranda It lasted for some time, and the St. Paul's shells fairly rained upon the destroyer." She also witnessed the attack made by the New Orleans and Cincinnati upon the Spanish steamer Antonio Lopez, which they destroyed Before the war ended Mrs. de Muro fled into the interior to the plantation of her uncle. - New York Journal.

NEED FOR DRYDOCKS.

The Baltimore's Speed Reduced About One-half by Accumulations.

The Baltimore has recently been docked at Hongkong, and the report of the docking contains an interesting feature. The ship had not been in dock previously since April 24, and since that date the vessel had been almost continuously in the harbor of Manila.

The report received at the navy de partment states that the bottom of the ship was completely covered with a hard substance, limelike in quality, resem bling a coral formation It did not resist the efforts of the cleaners and yielded readily to the scraping. It was boldly as wonderful progress mani- found that the steel plates of the hull were not injured and that even the paint was not disturbed. It was expected from the appearance of the bull to find the plates badly pitted, and that the paint would be removed with the substance. The effect of this accumulation on the hull was that the speed of the vessel was reduced about one-half, a result which would have proved disastrous in time of war, when it would be important to keep clean bottoms if the enemy was to be successfully chased.

This incident shows the necessity for docking facilities on the Asiatic station. At present our ships must resort to the British dockyards, which may not always be accessible. There is no dock at Manila, where the shops supported by the Spanish government are filled with old tools and exhibit unmistakable signs of neglect and abuse. The navy department will urge that means of docking and cleaning and repairing our warships in the far east be afforded by congress With the acquisition of the Philippines and the enlargement of American interests in the Pacific and in Asia, it has become imperative, naval officers assert, that the United States possess its own dock, capable of accommodating the large ships likely to be part of the Asi atic squadron. - Baltimore Sun

BEDTIME FOR SOCIETY. The First

Philadelphia Social Leaders Make It Two In the Morning.

WILL CLOSE BALLS AT THAT HOUR.

Dinners Before the Dancing Class to Be at Half Past Seven-Some of the Views Expressed-Only One Negative Vote In a Hundred For the Plan to Get More Sleep.

More than 100 women prominent in Philadelphia society, who have been aroused to take united action by the Surplus, necessity for holding entertainments at earlier hours, met the other afternoon at the Acorn club, in Walnut street. It was decided that ladies giving dinners on the evenings dancing classes are held should send out their invitations for half past 7 o'clock, so that their guests may go directly afterward to the dancing classes, arriving there by half past 9 o'clock.

Another means to encourage earlier hours was the adoption of a resolution making it a matter of etiquette to go to a ball not less than an hour after the time named in the invitation. The meeting unanimously expressed its opinion that the hour for closing a ball should be 2 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. W. W. Frazier said she thought the mothers were the ones to decide the question. She expressed herself as heartily in favor of the movement. Mrs. Robert W. Leslie said if the men could be induced to agree to the change the rest would be easily accomplished.

Mrs. John Cadwalader approved of earlier bours for entertainments, but thought it would not be well too limit the hours, thus telling guests when to go. The general movement in favor of earlier hours, she thought, would soon result in bringing them about.

"We cannot dictate to people at what hour they shall dine or go to bed," remarked Mrs. Edward Coles, "but something should be done to secure an earlier attendance at balls, thus making it much easier for those who are obliged to stand for hours. There is no rest for these weary ones before the ball."

"If dinners were at half past 7," said Mrs. William Platt Pepper, "the dreadful period between half past 10 and 12 o'clock would be bridged and dinner would be more brilliant, for everybody would be in full dress. Last winter I went to several balls at about half past 11 and found about two people in the ballroom. I think it a senseless thing. People could dine just as well at half past 7 and get to the balls early."

Mrs. Frederick T. Mason, who has charge of the Monday night dancing class, said: "If the mothers would see that their daughters are at the dancing class at half past 9, I will see that it is closed at half past 12." "It all depends on the men coming early!" shouted one of the ladies in the assemblage. "If the girls come early," replied Mrs. Charles Curtis Harrison, "you can depend upon JEWELER -:- OPTICIAN, their drawing the men early. All in favor of earlier hours please say 'Aye.'

"Aye," responded 100 voices, and only one nay was heard. "Delightful!" said Mrs. Harrison. "The next question is how we can get earlier hours. Mrs. Coles has said she did not think we could dicrate when a ball should be

Mrs. A. J. Cassatt said the committees of several of the midwinter balls, including the Benedicts, had approved of their earlier hours and would do all in their power to advance the cause. Mrs. Owen Jones Wister announced on behalf of the assembly committee that steps were being taken to begin the as sembly balls at an earlier hour. Mrs. Frazier remarked that a fixed hour for closing would regulate the difficulty. Mrs. Clement A. Griscom expressed approval of closing balls earlier.

"I don't think any of us giving a ball would like to say when our friends should go away," said Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel. "But if they got there at half past 10, the ball would naturally close earlier." At the close of the meet. ing the ladies all seemed well satisfied at the decisive action they had taken. -New York Herald.

Favored by Fortune.

The other day a young man at Albert Park, Victoria, N. S. W., took up a revolver from a friend's mantelshelf with which to hammer a tack into the wall. The revolver was loaded and went off. The ball cut a thin gold ring from the man's little finger, tore through his trousers, struck on some silver he had in his pocket, ricochetted and pierced the toe of his boot. Result: Damage to trousers and boot and one broken ring The man did not suffer to the extent of a pin prick. Moral: Always carry some money in your pockets. - Sydney Bulle-

The report received at the pavy department states that the bottom of the ship was completely covered with a bard substance, limelike in quality, resembling a coral formation It did not resist the efforts of the cleaners and yielded readily to the scraping. It was found that the steel plates of the bull were not injured and that even the paint was not disturbed. It was expected from the appearance of the bull to find the plates badly pitted, and that the paint would be removed with the substance. The effect of this accumulation on the hull was that the speed of the vessel was reduced about one-half, a result which would have proved disastrous in time of war, when it would be important to keep clean bottoms if the enemy was to be successfully chased.

This incident shows the necessity for docking facilities on the Asiatic station. At present our ships must resort to the British dockyards, which may not always be accessible. There is no dock at Manila, where the shops supported by the Spanish government are filled with old tools and exhibit unmistakable signs of neglect and abuse. The navy department will urge that means of docking and cleaning and repairing our warships in the far east be afforded by congress. With the acquisition of the Philippines and the enlargement of American interests in the Pacific and in Asia, it has become imperative, naval officers assert, that the United States possess its own dock, capable of accommodating the large ships likely to be part of the Asiatio squadron. - Baltimore Sun

Philadelphia Social Leaders Make It Two In the Morning.

WILL CLOSE BALLS AT THAT HOUR.

Dinners Before the Dancing Class to Be at Half Past Seven-Some of the Views Expressed-Only One Nega- DAVID BOYCE, tive Vote In a Hundred For the Plan to Get More Sleep.

More than 100 women prominent in Philadelphia society, who have been aroused to take united action by the Surplus, necessity for holding entertainments at earlier hours, met the other afternoon at the Acorn club, in Walnut street. It General Banking Business was decided that ladies giving dinners on the evenings dancing classes are held should send out their invitations for half past 7 o'clock, so that their guests may go directly afterward to the dancing classes, arriving there by half past 9

Another means to encourage earlier hours was the adoption of a resolution making it a matter of etiquette to go to a ball not less than an hour after the time named in the invitation. The meeting unanimously expressed its opinion that the hour for closing a ball should be 2 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. W. W. Frazier said she thought the mothers were the ones to decide the question. She expressed herself as heartily in favor of the movement. Mrs. Robert W. Leslie said if the men could be induced to agree to the change the rest would be easily accomplished.

Mrs. John Cadwalader approved of earlier bours for entertainments, but thought it would not be well too limit the hours, thus telling guests when to go. The general movement in favor of earlier hours, she thought, would soon result in bringing them about.

"We cannot dictate to people at what bour they shall dine or go to bed," remarked Mrs. Edward Coles, "but something should be done to secure an earlier attendance at balls, thus making it much easier for those who are obliged to stand for hours. There is no rest for these weary ones before the ball."

"If dinners were at half past 7," said Mrs. William Platt Pepper, "the dreadful period between half past 10 and 12 o'clock would be bridged and dinner would be more brilliant, for everybody would be in full dress. Last winter I went to several balls at about half past 11 and found about two people in the ballroom. I think it a senseless thing. People could dine just as well at half past 7 and get to the balls early.

Mrs. Frederick T. Mason, who has charge of the Monday night dancing class, said: "If the mothers would see that their daughters are at the dancing class at half past 9, I will see that it is closed at half past 12." "It all depends on the men coming early!" shouted one of the ladies in the assemblage. "If the girls come early," replied Mrs. Charles Curtis Harrison, "you can depend upon their drawing the men early. All in favor of earlier hours please say 'Aye.' "

"Aye," responded 100 voices, and only one nay was heard. "Delightful!" said Mrs. Harrison. "The next question is how we can get earlier hours. Mrs. Coles has said she did not think we could dicrate when a ball should be closed."

Mrs. A. J. Cassatt said the committees of several of the midwinter balls, including the Benedicts, had approved of their earlier hours and would do all in their power to advance the cause. Mrs. Owen Jones Wister announced on behalf of the assembly committee that STAMPS steps were being taken to begin the as sembly balls at an earlier hour. Mrs. Frazier remarked that a fixed hour for closing would regulate the difficulty. Mrs. Clement A. Griscom expressed approval of closing balls earlier.

"I don't think any of us giving a ball would like to say when our friends should go away," said Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel. "But if they got there at half past 10, the ball would naturally close earlier." At the close of the meet ing the ladies all seemed well satisfied at the decisive action they had taken. -New York Herald.

Favored by Fortune.

The other day a young man at Albert Park, Victoria, N. S. W., took up a revolver from a friend's mantelshelf with which to hammer a tack into the wall. The revolver was loaded and went off. The ball cut a thin gold ring from the man's little finger, tore through his trousers, struck on some silver he had in his pocket, ricochetted and pierced the toe of his boot. Result: Damage to trousers and boot and one broken ring The man did not suffer to the extent of a pin prick. Moral: Always carry some money in your pockets. - Sydney Bulleshould the pottery combination fail to materialize at the last moment some manufacturers will not be caught napping. They will have traveling salesmen in their employ, and can market their goods as though they had not been thinking for several months that the work was to be done by the trust.

It is the custom of pottery concerns to make contracts with their salesmen at the end of each year, and as a rule there is little trouble in completing the This time, however, trust prospects seemed to interfere. and there were some anxious salesmen. Now a number, it is learned on good authority, are in a better frame of mind.

It seems that the number of potteries entside the trust has disturbed some that are in, and not knowing what the for another year. The trust, it is understood, is to take care of all contracts made by individual potteries prior to the signing of final papers, so that arrangements with travelers are made to some under that head. It may, however, be expensive for the trust.

They are well bred mice that expected to be petted and caressed and treated as ten-

By careful breeding they have developed great variety in coloring and sometimes in shape. One very choice style of animal, called the spiny mouse, has a row of bristling bair for a spinal ornament and is a very cute miniature reproduction of a porcupine. The familiar white mice so often seen for sale on the streets here have been bred with black eyes instead of red ones. It has taken several years to produce these results, but the society now claims to be able to furnish mice in 12 or 13 different shades. To any one who is able to of these matters connected with the overcome the fear of mice they are dainty, delicate little studies at any time, but when they play around in suits of chocolate, sable, fawn, jet black, tortoise or golden agouti they become perfectly fascinating.

It was also decided to publish a newspaper in the interest of the union and to advocate reforms in the treatment of female servants.

Before relating the effect of the Domestics' union in Christiania it is necessary to state here that unions have now sprung up all over the Scandinavian countries, principally in Nor way and Denmark. The movement has spread into Germany, Austria, England, France and Belgium, and last October a convention was held at Vienna, when some 50 delegates from decided before forming a general society. to send two delegates to America to secure the support of the women servants in America. The two delegates that have started are Miss Ida Christoffersen. a Norwegian, and Henrietta Maller, a Danish woman, who also speak the German language.

In Europe the movement has secured the earnest support of the labor unions and the proposition will be made to admit these domestics' unions on equal terms into the European labor unions. The expenses of the Vienna convention and the American delegates are paid by the European labor unions. How the American labor unions will act in this matter or if the women servants' dele gates come to America with their sanction is a matter of conjecture, the German and Scandinavian newspapers in their report of the convention merely hinting that the delegates will be welcomed by the American labor unions.

And now, to return to the Norwegian Domestics' union, the immediate result was the organization of employers' unions, binding themselves not to employ a servant who was a member of the Domestics' union, and similar employers' unions were formed in other Ohio. in cases, 250.24c; candled, 20025c; stor-European cities, but the employers, to age eggs, 170018c. their sorrow, found that to carry out their resolution was almost an impossimet her coming out of a theater-gay, to have their demands fulfilled by a general strike. servants of Europe, and the reports coming from here to the friends still in the European bondage of the large wages, easy work, good treatment and short bours make them, of course, feel discontented. Norwegian women are highly intelligent, the absence of a titlea aristocratic class gives them more independence of manner and thought, and it is no surprise that this social revolution has started in Norway. While every one must sympathize with the European woman servant's condition, and the attempt she may make to improve it, the proposition to introduce the movement among the woman servants in America must by every fair minded man or woman be condemned. No servants in the world are treated more liberally, more humanely than the domestic servants in our American houses. - Chicago

Tells the Story.

Filipinos Willing to Reimburse the United States.

FLAN TO PURCHASE THE ISLANDS.

Rat if Given Independence Would Ask the United States to Establish a Protectorate-No Hostility to Americans. To Finish Peace Treaty This Week.

Manilla, Dec. 8.—The native press sontinues to advocate independence and a reimbursement to the United States government of the amount to be paid Spain for the Philippines. The Independencia thinks this course the only just one. It insists that the Filipinos have aided the Americans solely because they believed they were fighting for independence. The paper quotes fiberally from President McKinley's last speech in Chicago to support its contention that the Americans are pledged to give the Filipinos independ-

Chief Aguinaldo and his principal advisers fully recognize the importance of s strong protectorate in ssme form. One of the latter has even ventured the assertion that if the Filipinos were granted independence, in accordance with the demand of the leaders, the United States would be immediately asked to establish a protecto ate, as etherwise the Philippines must sooner or later become the prey of a less liberal-minded country.

This statement is borne out by the in the vicinity of Manila. The numerous stories as to hostility felt and displayed on their part toward the Americans are without foundation. The United States authorities expect on the part of the natives a peaceful acceptance of the inevitable.

The United States transport Newport, bearing general Miller and staff and the First tattalion of the Twentieth Kansas regiment, with the Wyoming light battery, which left San Francico Nov. 8, arrived, closely following the City of Puebla, which arrived with Lieutenant Colonel Childers, 25 officers and 600 men, including five companies of the First Tennessee, Troop A of the Nevada volunteer cavalry, a detachment of recruits for the Twenty-third infantry and a detachment for the California heavy artillery.

To provide for the accommodation of these new comers will necessitate the transfer of a number of United States troops outside the limits of the city

Paris, Dec. 8.—There was no joint session of the peace commissions, as the Spaniards are still occupied in translating the Americans' answer to their proposal in regard to the status of Spansh subjects in the annexed territories. One of the Spanish commissioners said: "It is very painful for us to remain here haggling over details, since the main points have been settled and we have been obliged to relinquish our colonies.

"All the work will be finished this week. The commorcial treaty between the United States and Spain will be negotiated upon the re-establishment of diplomatic relations, and the question of Spanish ships and products in Cuba and Porto Rico will be included therein.'

To Cultivate Friendly Relations.

Hongkong, Dec. 8.-General Riewodos and Dr. Lesdajluna, representatives of the Filipino junta, started for Washington under instructions "to endeavor to remove misapprehension and suspicions and cultivate the friendliest relations with the American government and people.'

THE EMERGENCY FUND.

The Amounts Expended by the Various Departments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The manner in which all war funds were spent is told in detail for the first time in letters sent from all the departments and bureaus to the house committee on appropriations and made public as part of the report on the urgent deficiency bill.

Of the emergency national defense fund of $10,000,000 the navy department got the largest amount, viz: $20,-973,275.

The navy has a balance of $285,000 of this fund.

The war department expenditures of the emergency fund amount to $13,931,-

The state department received $393, 000.

An allotment of $75,000 for expenses of commission of inquiry into the condnet of the war has also been made to the treasury department. How much more will be required the department is unable at this time to state.

Jake Glover, a negro who was accused of being an accomplice of the negro Merryweather, who was Nuched for the crime Nov. 22, has been in jail here since the crime was committed. His trial was held, but nothbeing produced which tended to conviot him, he was turned loose.

A mob of 100 men wene out to the ver's house, took him from his bed and hanged him to a nearby tree. Pope was a prominent young man of 18, and was killed for a few dollars he had in his

PRAISED BY LONG.

He Writes a Reply to Captain Whiting. The Monadnock's Remarkable Voyage.

Washington, Dec. 8 .- The navy department has just made public a report from Captain Whiting, who commanded the Monadnock on the voyage from San Francisco to Manila, in which the latter, after telling of some of the hardships endured during the trip, pays a well deserved compliment to the energy and ability of the officers and crew which made possible what was without doubt the most remarkable voyage made by an ironclad vessel in an emergency.

Captain Whiting's report reached the navy department through Admiral Dewey, says in part:

"Notwithstanding the fortuitous consequence to myself attendant upon the cruise of this vessel to the relief of the Asiatic fleet at Manila, I should consider myself derelict in duty as commanding officer now that the war is over, if I failed to call the attention of yourself and the department to the highly meritorious services rendered by this ship's company of officers and men under the most trying and difficult circumstances.

"The ability, courage, zeal and endurance shown by them in crossing the Pacific ocean in a vessel of this type, practically a raft with only 16 inches free board in her overloaded condition certainly deserve some recognition. A cruise of over 7,000 miles in the tropics." Secretary Long wrote a letter to Captain Whiting, in which he says: "it is exceedingly gratifying to the department that, notwithstanding its hardships, the vessel was brought safely to a distant port. The department fully realizes that the cruise of the Monadnock was such as to call upon the patriotism, courage and and ability of all on board. "In conclusion, the department notices that you modestly give the whole credit for the successful termination of your cruise of 7,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to the ship's company of officers and men, but the department is convinced that in addition to their services it is indebted to you for your good judgment, ability and fine seamanship, qualities most desirable for a commanding officer to possess. "You are directed to read this letter to the ship's company at general mus-

WHEELER ON ACTIVE LIST.

But the General Will Be Relieved From Further Duty-Now Free to Exercise His Rights In House.

Washington, Dec. 8 .- Major General Wheeler has seen his last active service in the United States army. He was at the war department and had a talk with Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin. It is understood the construction of a canal. that he will be relieved from further active duty unless there is a recurrence war, but that he will remain on the active list of the United States volunteer army until that army is mustered Protest Against Appointing Them on out of the service by the declaration of peace. This privilege is accorded to him in recognition of his distinguished services, and will leave General Wheel. er free to exercise his functions as a had a long debate in executive session member of the house of representatives during this session.

To be major generals-Brigadier General Guy V. Henry, U. S. A.; Brigadier General Leonard Wood, U. S. V.

The president also sent in 250 or more navy and marine corps nominations, but these were all recess appointments and have been published. Admiral Sampson and Admiral Sch.ey head the list in the navy branch and Colonel Robert W. Huntington is at the top of the marine corps list.

TO GO TO MANILA.

Hobson Will Superintend the Raising of the Sunken Warships There.

New York, Dec. 8.-Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson will go to Manila to superintend the raising of the sunken war vessels. He expects to leave about the 20th of this month. Hobson will shortly visit his home in Alabama, but only expects to stay three or four days. He has not yet given up hopes of successfully raising the Colon, but it is doubtful whether or not the navy department can be induced to go to further expense in this work.

The Senate Committee Reports Serious Complications.

AN AMENDMENT TO THE BILL.

To Authorize an Immediate Issue of $5,000,000 Worth of Bond to Cancel All Obligations-Nicaragua's Attitude Severely Condemned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- As a result of the meeting of the senate committee on Nicaragua canal Senator Morgan gave notice of an amendment to the Nicharagua canal bill authorizing the immediate issuance with a guarantee ov this government of $5,000,000 worth of bonds for the redemption of all outstanding stock except that held by the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica and the cancellation of all obligations. He submitted at the same time a report upon the situation with reference to the canal, dealing exclusively with the fact that the government of Nicaragua granted a concession to construct a canal to another company than the Maritime Canal company.

he deals with this transaction in severe terms, upholding the rights of the Maritime company for the present and for an extension of its concession for ten years. The report arraigns the conduct of the republic of Nicaragua as well as that of the American citizens ecuring the new concession in most Nicaragua to jealousy of Costa Rica and that of the concessionaires to "obstruct a great national policy in selling out to a transcontinental railroad company for the defeat of a supposed competitor."

The committee adduces as a justification of the new report the seriousness of the situation, saying on this point:

"The serious consequences likely to result to the United States from the unprecedented and unwarranted action of the late government of Nicaragua, and the evident purpose to force our government into payment of a large sum as compensation for the future consent of the republic of the United States of Central America to the creation of a maritime canal through the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua requires the committee to present the grounds on which it insists that this proceeding is without any support in law, justice or equity, and that it violates the hitherto cordial relations of the United States with Nicaragua.'

the matter the committee say:

"How this unexampled condition is to be dealt with otherwise than by an express and determined attitude on the part of the United States is a question that carries with it the danger of serious embroilment in the near future. If Nicaragua is not held to the performance of her agreement years will elapse and many dangers will be encountered river and harbor bill, the new chairman before even a start can be made toward

OBJECT TO SENATORS.

Commissions-Savs the President Has Not the Right.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The senate upon the subject of confirmation of the Hawaiian commissioners.

The debate was started by Senator against the practice of appointing senthe daly authorized agents of the president to carry out his ideas and wishes. What became of their functions as senators, he asked, when the report they make, as in the case of the Hawaiian commission, came before the senate, a

In the case of the joint high commission now negotiating a treaty with Great Britain, and the peace commission now in Paris, there were the same objections, but applied with greater force.

The method of appointing senators on commissions was defended by Senators Morgan and Platt (Conn.), who claimed there was nothing inconsistent in so doing. The debate then became somewhat general, and the constitutional prerogatives of the president and the rights of the senate were discussed at length upon the legal and technical phase of the subject.

ANTI-SCALPING BILL.

The House Passed the Measure After Spirited Debate - Amendments Defeated.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The house has passed the anti-ticket scalping bill by a vote of 119 to 101. This action is the culmination of a ten-years' struggle on the part of the railroads to put an end to the business of ticket scalping. The interstate commerce commission first called attention to the subject in its report of 1888, and it has been before con-gress ever since in one form or another. During the last session extensive hear.

ings were given both to the representatives of the railroads and the scalpers and Mr. Sherman (N. Y.) secured 174 pledges for the measure. It was, how ever, deemed inadvisable to bring the measure forward until the present sess

The debate lasted four hours, and was spirited upon both sides. None of the amendments offered were adopted, and the bill passed as reported by the com-

TO PRESENT PETITIONS.

The Anti-Imperialist League Will Send Them to the Senate - Sherman's Letter Read.

Boston, Dec. 8 .- At a meeting of the Anti - Imperialist League executive committee a letter was read from John Sherman saying:

"My hope is that the senate of the United States will reject the treaty and leave the people of the islands free from the shackles of Spain and the distant domination of the United States. I sympathize with Aguinaldo in his ambition to found a republic in the China sea, near the equator, and hope he may become the Washington of a new nation, absolutely free from European and American influence."

Bishop Potter of New York and Jas.

C. Carter of New York were added to the list of vice presidents of the league. More than 500 petitions protesting against an imperialistic policy regarding Spain's conquered possessions have tion bearing many signatures, and it was decided to begin at once presenting | 1892. the petitions to the senate.

ANOTHER ARMY MEASURE.

severe terms, attributing the course of Congressman Hull Introduces One With Alger's Approval.

> Washington, Dec. 8.—Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill increasing the regular army to 100,000 men. The bill was framed at the war department and has the approval of the secretary of war. It is not the bill framed by General Miles, as this measure has not the high rank proposed by the Miles bill, and some of the appointments are open to officers of the volun teers, or from civil life.

It provides for a lieutenant general and what is considered a sufficient increase of major generals and brigadier generals to command an army of 100,-000 men scattered from Porto Rico to Manila. The artillery is reorganized, separating them into coast and field artitlery, but promotion to be by seniority of the whole arm.

A RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

Dwelling upon Nicaragua's course in New Chairman of the Committee Says One Will Be Passed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.-At a meeting of the river and harbor committee Representative Theodore E. Burton was elected chairman to succeed Mr. Hooker of New York, who resigned from congress to accept a judgeship.

"We will dertainly have a river and harbor bill at this session of congress, and the committee will begin work on it at once. Doubtless there will be some opposition, but I am hopeful we will get through a fair and moderate

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S REPORT.

TRUST OR NO

Local Potteries Are Making Contracts With Travelers.

COMBINATION TO CARE FOR THEM

If It Becomes a Reality-Some Concerns Do Not Propose to Be Caught Napping If the Proposed Consolidation Fails to Materialize-It May Be Expensive.

should the pottery combination fail to materialize at the last moment some manufacturers will not be caught napping. They will have traveling salesen in their employ, and can market their goods as though they had not been thinking for several months that the work was to be done by the trust.

It is the custom of pottery concerns to make contracts with their salesmen at the end of each year, and as a rule there is little trouble in completing the This time, howarrangement. ever, trust prospects seemed to interfere, and there were some anxious salesmen. Now a number, it is learned on good anthority, are in a better frame of mind. It seems that the number of potteries ontside the trust has disturbed some that are in, and not knowing what the for another year. The trust, it is understood, is to take care of all contracts made by individual potteries prior to the signing of final papers, so that arrangements with travelers are made to come under that head. It may, however, be expensive for the trust.

NOT YET.

Mr. Tapscott Has Not Put In an Appearance.

"No. Mr. Tapscott has not yet come,' said a prominent manufacturer to the TEWS REVIEW, "and I cannot tell you when he will come. He should have been here last week, at least I heard he was coming, but since then I have had nothing from an authoritative source. If it is necessary for him to come to Liverpool I think he will be here."

"I am not at all sure that Mr. Tapclosely identified with the potting industry. "I don't know what would bring him here at this time, and I can't think he would neglect the very important matters on hand to pay a social visit to Liverpool. However, very little of these matters connected with the trust are being given out just now."

Mice of All Colors.

The National Mouse Club of England recently held an exhibition where several hundred mice competed for gold medals, champion cups and various other prizes. These little creatures are not the ordinary everyday mice which scare the cook and drive the mistress of the house to take refuge on a chair. They are well bred mice that expected to be petted and caressed and treated as tenderly as a pet cat or dog.

By careful breeding they have developed great variety in coloring and sometimes in shape. One very choice style of animal, called the spiny mouse, has a row of bristling bair for a spinal ornament and is a very cute miniature scott will be here," said a gentleman reproduction of a porcupine. The familiar white mice so often seen for sale on the streets here have been bred with black eyes instead of red ones. It has taken several years to produce these results, but the society now claims to be able to furnish mice in 12 or 13 different shades. To any one who is able to overcome the fear of mice they are dainty, delicate little studies at any time, but when they play around in suits of chocolate, sable, fawn, jet black, tortoise or golden agouti they become perfectly fascinating.

As in the case of all fads of this kind, Clarkson, Dec. 7.-Very successful the prices brought by these little pets are extremely steep. Fifteen dollars or $20 is not a large price to pay for a well bred mouse, and some of them have been sold for as high as $25

Mourning by Proxy.

Our ways of showing respect to the dead would surely be past the comprehension of the Martians or of anybody else whom custom has not blinded to the absurdity of some of the things we do. For example, a funeral procession went out Fourteenth street one sunny afternoon recently, and in the train I recognized the carriage of a woman 1 know A little surprised at her presence, I glanced at the carriage windows, but the shades were down. I pictured her within, so overcome with grief at her friend's death that she could not bear the curious eyes of chance passers. That same afternoon I met her coming out of a theater-gay, rosy, laughing. She had been to the matinee, while her empty carriage, in token of her sorrow, followed her dead friend to the grave. - Washington Star.

It was also decided to publish a newspaper in the interest of the union and to advocate reforms in the treatment of female servants.

Before relating the effect of the Domestics' union in Christiania it is necessary to state here that unions have now sprung up all over the Scandinavian countries, principally in Nor way and Denmark. The movement has spread into Germany, Austria, England, France and Belgium, and last October a convention was held at Vienna, when some 50 delegates from these countries were present and it was decided before forming a general society to send two delegates to America to secure the support of the women servants in America. The two delegates that have started are Miss Ida Christoffersen, a Norwegian, and Henrietta Maller, a Danish woman, who also speak the German language.

In Europe the movement has secured the earnest support of the labor unions and the proposition will be made to admit these domestics' unions on equal terms into the European labor unions. The expenses of the Vienna convention and the American delegates are paid by the European labor unions. How the American labor unions will act in this matter or if the women servants' dele gates come to America with their sanction is a matter of conjecture, the German and Scandinavian newspapers in their report of the convention merely hinting that the delegates will be welcomed by the American labor unions.

And now, to return to the Norwegian Domestics' union, the immediate result was the organization of employers' unions, binding themselves not to employ a servant who was a member of the Domestics' union, and similar employers' unions were formed in other European cities, but the employers, to their sorrow, found that to carry out their resolution was almost an impossibility. Neither have the servants sought to have their demands fulfilled by a general strike. By mutual consent a truce has been entered into, the employers glad of the delay, while the servants are no doubt following out the plan of some secret councilors to first strengthen themselves and enroll every Heavy hogs, 325 pounds and upward, $3.400 servant in Europe in their organization before making their demands.

The conditions of the woman servants of Europe are little understood in this country. Long hours, hard work, coarse food, comfort in the American sense of the word almost unknown, and as to wages $25 per year is the average pay of women servants, even the higher or upper servants in England getting very little above this sum. A separate room for the maidservant is almost unknown. In most households she is considered a household article that can be provided for anywhere. She has in most cases only a cold, uncomfortable garret or a bunk in the kitchen. Her feelings are not considered. In fact, she is not expected to have any feelings. She is a drudge, and still she is expected to always be neatly dressed, to cook, to be within call any bour during the night or day, a machine always ready for use. America is the Mecca for the woman servants of Europe, and the reports coming from here to the friends still in the European bondage of the large wages, easy work, good treatment and short hours make them, of course, feel discontented. Norwegian women are highly intelligent, the absence of a titlea aristocratic class gives them more independence of manner and thought, and it is no surprise that this social revolution has started in Norway. While every one must sympathize with the European woman servant's condition, and the attempt she may make to improve it, the proposition to introduce the movement among the woman servants in America must by every fair minded man or woman be condemned. No servants in the world are treated more liberally. more humanely than the domestic servants in our American houses. - Chicago Times-Herald.

The Inventor of Printing.

The committee intrusted with the preparations for celebrating the five hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gutenberg, whom the Germans claim as the inventor of printing, have now decided to hold a great international commemoration in Mayence on June 24 and 25, 1900. Invitations to take part in the festival will be sent to the book printers and sellers and literary men of Germany and other countries. The foreign states and larger towns of Germany, foreign governments, home and foreign universities and academies will also be invited to send representatives. -Berlin Dispatch to London Telegraph.

Unfavorable Comments Upon Some of the Leading Ladies of the Prussian Court - No Censure For the Men-The Prince's Relations With Emperor William I.

Messrs. Harper & Bros. will soon have ready for general distribution the long expected Bismarck memoirs. The book bears the title "Bismarck, the Man and the Statesman, Being the Reflections and Reminiscences of Otto, Prince von Bismarck, Written and Dictated by Himself After His Retirement from Office." It has been translated from the German under the supervision of A. J. Butler, late a fellow of Trinity college, Cambridge. The period covered is from 1832 to 1888. It was on Aug. 5, 1855, that Bismarck first met Queen Victoria and describes the prince as looking handsome and cool in his black uniform. Though he conversed courteously with the Prussian embassador, there was in his manner "a kind of malevolent curiwas not unknown to him. When This did not leave him even when, after Frederick William IV was prostrated by an apoplectic stroke in 1858, a strong effort was made to have the government parried on through the queen by those gentlemen of the court who might be called upon or might offer to undertake it. "My participation in this plan was also requested verbally, but I absolutely refused. It would be a government by harem." Bismarck was the chief agency in having the regency placed in the hands of the king's brother, who ultimately succeeded him as William I. In his antagonism to petticoat government Bismarck had found a stout ally in Gustav von Alvensleben, afterward leader of the Fourth corps at Beaumont and Sedan. Indeed that bluff soldier frequently vented his opinion, even before William himself, "In words that I ed at the grandson who was guilty of do not want to repeat, but that expressed | the Saullike jealousy impossible to the all the indignation of a patriotic soldier over ladies playing at politics in language that very nearly came within the penal statutes.'

Von Alvensleben also shared Bismarck's opinion as to the necessity of a final settlement of the rivalry between Prussia and Austria on the field of battle. He then repaired to the king, and in a short half hour returned with the following rather ungracious concession penciled on the leaf of a notebook: "Inasmuch as my minister president has left me in the lurch in the face of the enemy, and here I am not able to supply his place, I have discussed the question with my son, and as he has as sociated himself with the minister president's opinion I find myself reluctantly compelled, after such brilliant victories, graceful a peace.

Peace brought with it a postponement of the war with France. But Bismarck well knew that it was only a postponement. #### TO LIBERATE IRELAND.

Novel Plan Suggested to the President by a Chicago Man.

The president receives an average of 1,700 letters a day. One-half of them ask favors of one kind or another. The other half offer advice on every subject under the sun, or express their approval or disapproval of executive acts and policy. Just now the question of expansion suggests the topic for most of the letters, and 98 per cent of them approve

The president has received a novel suggestion from George T. Dougherty of Chicago, who says: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free. Now we have it in our power to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war. That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine islands, which we may offer to ever covetous England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves of what may turn out to be a white elephant. This is a golden opportunity for President McKinley to undertake such a deal and cover himself and the American people with glory. McKinley's ancestors were Irish, and his great granduncle, Francis McKinley, was shot down by the British soldiers as an about 100 years ago.'

Mr. Dougherty declares that if Ireland were free it would make a most mighty nation and a leader of civilizathe most powerful and athletic and the quickest witted race in the world, and Irish women are the purest and most virtuous of any nationality on earth. William E. Curtis in Chicago Record.

FAST MAIL CARRIER.

Pneumatic Tube Which Carries Let ters Forty Miles an Hour.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently inspected a pneumatic tube device invented by B C Batcheller, who perfected the dynamite guns used on the Vesuvius. The exhibition took place at the Astor place branch of the New York postoffice, an a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. At intermediate station.

By Mr. Batcheller's invention a mail carrier the size of an eight inch shell and weighing 25 pounds, which is hurled through the tube running from the general postoffice to the Grand Central depot can be caught by sensitive electric fingers, switched aside to its proper substation, and there deposited on the receiving table as gently as though it had not just been traveling 40 miles an hour These electric fingers, too, recognize the carriers which belong to their respective stations and let the others pass by. This is done by means of disks of varying diameters on the head of the carrier. When a carrier is switched aside to a substation, it strikes an air cushion which breaks its force and is then gently discharged into the receiver This most intelligent machine forces the carriers to keep their proper distance apart by means of a time lock When the vehicles have been emptied, they are returned to the starting place -New York World.

AND SLEPT IN THE CITY JAIL

When They Appeared Before Mayor Rough This Morning He Gave Them Five Minutes to Leave Under Penalty of . Workhouse Sentence.

Yesterday afternoon Officer McMillan arrested and took to jail two colered women, whom he found in Drury isne near Peach alley. They were so drunk that they did not know their names and the officer had all he could do to land them in jail. When the officer put them in cell No 3 he did not care to search them owing to their condition. It was not long until they were asleep. They did not awaken until after 7 o'clock, at which time supper was brought to them. An attempt was made to learn their names, ent this was unsuccessful. Their condition was worse than when they were brought in. Chief Johnson, when he learned this, made an investigation and found that they had concealed a half-pint bottle of whiskey in the beding. This was taken from them, and this morning when they were brought before the mayor they were entirely sohered. They gave their names as being Malissa Lewis and Sarah Suckers. They would not tell their right names, but the fact that they are married and have different names is known to the police. They were given five minutes to get out of town or take six months to the works. They started for their homes near Georgetown.

The record of arresting women by officers is as follows: White, 1; Mc-Millan, 2; Grim, 3.

Chief Johnson is determined to break up the practice of children riding on the sidewalks, and yesterday afternoon several sleds were brought to city hall as a result.

No complaints were filed yesterday, and the jail is once more vacant.

CROP REPORT.

Wheat Is Away Up While Other Products Are Not So Good.

The official crop report of the Ohio department of agriculture has been made for the month of November, which shows that wheat, as compared with an average, was 100 per cent. Of this, $4 per cent was sold as soon as threshed and 6 per cent was damaged while growing. The estimated area of corn for the year was 2.954.564 acres, or an estimated average yield of 38 bushels to the acre. Of the land that was sown in clover but 14 per cent of it was cut for seed. The total yield of apples, as compared with an average, was but 9 per cent. The estimated area for the year on potatoes was 117.341 acres. The estimated product of tobacco per acre was $33 pounds. The cattle being fed for the spring market, as compared with last year, was 32 per cent. The sheep was the same.

FINE COASTING,

But It Is Not Pleasant For Pedestrians.

Some of the hill streets are in splendid condition for coasting, and last night scores of youngsters enjoyed the sport. Avondale street was filled until a late hour, it being one of the best tracks in the city. Pedestrians, however, did not enjoy the sport, and although no accidents are reported there were many narrow escapes.

"If every small boy is allowed to use the streets and pavements of the city as coasting ground they should be compelled to put bicycle lamps on their sleds," said a well-known resident to-64y. "In that way the city may be taved a damage action."

EDUCATIONAL STATISTICS.

One-fifth of the United States' Entire Population Is In School.

The report of the secretary of the interior shows that one-fifth of the entire population of the United States is in school-the total being 16,225,093, although the total average schooling enjoyed by the people of the United States does not equal more than 1,000 days for each inhabitant.

Of recent years there has been a large increase in the number of students in colleges and universities. The total in 1871 was 88,864, and in 1898 was 217,-763. In 1872 the proportion was 590 students to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. In 1898 it was 1,216 to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. Considering that the standard of admission to colleges has been considerably raised during that period, Secretary Bliss estimates the number of students at colleges and universities is three times greater than it was 25 years ago and that the number pursuing postgraduate courses is 25 times as large as it was in 1872.

Another important and interesting item shows the expenditure per capita of population for public schools has been gradually increased from $1.75 in 1871 to $2.62 in 1898, while the expenditure per pupil per year has increased from $15.20 to $18.57. The total expenditure for public schools in 1871 was $69,107,612 and in 1897 it was $187,-320,602. The total number of pupils nearly doubled during the last quarter of a century. In 1871 it was 7,561,582; in 1897, 14,652,492. The number of teachers employed in the public schools don Fun of the United States in 1871 was 220,-225, in 1897, 413, 343. The increase in The cocoanut and snowball will be pendthe number of women teachers has been more rapid than those of men. A Priest Professes to Have Resurrected a Victim of Witchcraft.

New Zealand papers received at Vanconver, B. C., per steamship Miowera There's naught that earth can give, from report great excitement among the Tauranga natives owing to the reported resurrection of a Maori girl by the Maori King Tonhugu or his father confessor, called Te Ehau. Te Rerea, a confessed wizard, was accused of causing the death of many natives by witchcraft, and Father Te Ehau was sent for. Among those whom Te Rerea, as alleged, had killed by witchcraft was one Marita, a young girl. Arriving at the scene of the trouble, the priest called on Te Rerea, who acknowledged that he had killed care Naws Environment.

Marita, but no one else. Te Ebau tola Te Rerea he would save him this time, but that if he killed more people he would himself die and be torn to pieces in hell. The king's confessor then ordered the coffin of the dead girl, Marita. to be brought into the street. Thou sands of people were present when this was done. A mass of humanity watched the proceedings.

Te Ehau shouted in a loud voice to the mourners to stop weeping, that Marita would be restored to them. He then placed his hands on the girl's fore head and, performing some incantation, told her to rise, which she did, to the astonishment of all present. The Maoris are frantic with joy and are showering presents on the priest. The authorities have investigated the matter and severely questioned Marita, who says she has been in heaven. That the girl was about to be buried and would have been but for the arrival of the priest is vouched for by scores of white persons. An explanation of the strange happening is not yet forthcoming. The priest insists that any holy person can bring back the spirit of a person that has been chased away by witchcraft. - New York Sun.

THE county commissioners seem to experience some difficulty in selecting an infirmary director, but if the delay means the appointment of a better man paired. the county can afford to wait.

THE Republicans of Ohio expect their congressional delegation to stand by President McKinley and support him to the last. They were elected on a platform that will not permit any honest man to deviate from that course.

TOM REED is a big man in brain and body, and until recently was popular with his colleagues in the house of representatives, but when congress assembled his entrance was not greeted with enthusiasm. So much for the influence of his anti-expansion views.

Ir there is to be any more investigation of the Spanish war the men who propose and support the question should be compelled to pay for it. The bills of the commission now at work will doubtless exceed the real value of the report. Investigations are always costly and usually unsatisfactory.

THE clause in the Hull bill which pro vides for an increase of 25 per cent in the pay of soldiers serving in tropical countries, will appeal to thousands of people, particularly to the veterans of the Spanish war. They know the difference between camp life in the north and real duty where scorching sun and drenching rain make life a burden.

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

Congress cannot afford to waste much time discussing the financial question if it is to look after the important duties already laid down. Then the people do not care much about that matter. No one seriously objects to affairs as they are except the silver men, and they are not in position to do damage at this time. The country is prosperous, and there seems to be no demand for currency reform. If congress will quietly settle down to transact the business absolutely needed it will give general matisfaction.

IT HAPPENED IN SIXTH STREET

The Driver of a Milk Wagon Attempted to Cross In Front of the Street Car, and His Team Felt the Force of the Blow--The Harness Was Broken.

A street car and a milk wagon came together this morning in Sixth street, but no serious damage resulted.

The driver, in the employ of K.Davidson, was driving along the north side of Sixth street, between the street car track and the curb, and had almost reached the Diamond. He failed to notice an east bound car in charge of Motorman Stevenson, and when the car was almost upon him the team turned across the track. The motorman did not have time to stop his car and the horses were struck, knocked down and dragged for a short distance before the car could be

An investigation of the damages was commenced, and it was found that the horses were considerably bruised while the harness was broken in several places.

The wagon was not damaged and was the great chorus: left standing in the street while the driver proceeded to get the harness re-

Quaint Holiday Customs In the Moravian Village of Bethlehem, Pa.

Christmas Town is in its glory on Christmas. Christmas Town is the old village in Pennsylvania which was named Bethlehem 157 years ago by Count Zinzendorf, head and founder of the Moravian faith. The count arrived in the settlement on Dec. 24, 1741. That evening he took a lighted candle and entered the stable belonging to the single tiny stone dwelling of the place, and then and there, with the smell of the hay about him, he named the town that was to be Bethlehem "Nicht Jerusalem, sondern Bethlehem." Every Christmas eve since then has had its "vigil." Every Moravian home has its Christmas tree, flanked by "putzen." A putz is a beautiful bit of indoor landscape gardening, with fuzzy white cotton for snow, and always a tiny stable of Bethlehem, with a doll Christ in a 6 inch manger, and doll Joseph, Mary and wise men standing by, while a tinsel star of the east shines with undiminish-

Three o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 24 finds every Moravian family in the great stone church, built in 1806. The pulpit and reading desk are concealed by a big picture of the nativity. Classical music of the atmost beauty is sung at the love feast service. It is special Moravian music, often sung from manuscript scores over 100 years old, which when not in use are kept in the great archive vaults of the church. Peals out

Dinner at 5 o'clock over, the men, women and larger children return at 6 that being believed to be the wisest and for the "vigil." The church is ablaze most judicious course. Pay was withwith lights, crowded to overflowing. There is a choir of about 60, married women wearing pink ribbons in their caps, the unmarried girls blue. There is the famous Moravian trombone choir, a full string orchestra and J. Fred Wolle at the great organ. And the children do their share of the singing Again each person in the audience, young or old, receives a lighted candle in memory of the one borne by Count Zinzendorf so many years ago. #### CARNEGIE'S NEW HOME.

To Build the Most Modest, Plaines and Most Roomy House In New York.

Andrew Carnegie admitted the other day that he was the purchaser of the two blocks, comprising 80 lots, of city realty in Fifth avenue between Ninetieth and Ninety-second streets, in New York. Charles A. Gould is also interest ed in the purchase to some extent. Mr Carnegie intends to build on the property not a "palace," he said, but "the most modest, plainest and most roomy house in New York." He had bought the property, he said, because he want ed to live "alongside the park.

"This precious little life that has come to us needs the park and sunshine." said Mr. Carnegie, "and it is for these reasons that we not only have concurred in the advice of our physician, but deemed it a duty to move up to the highest ground and where there is plenty of room. As for building a grand palace, that is foreign to our tastes. Mr. Carnegie will build on the bloc between Ninetieth and Ninety-first streets. It was said recently by realty men concerned in his purchase that he intended to sell the northerly block of the two to purchasers who would be congenial neighbors, for improvement with private dwellings. The deeds for the whole, it was said, would be drawn in the name of Mrs. Carnegie.

Notice has been served on the lessee of the riding academy now occupying a part of the southerly plot to vacate the building within 60 days. The plot is to be brought to a level grade and sodded, so that when any part is sold and improved the ansold remainder can be maintained like a private park .- New York Tribune.

COL HECKER TESTIFIES.

He Denies to War Investigators That There Was Any Influence In Routing of Troops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 .- The war investigating commission examined several witnesses, including Paymaster General Stanton and Colonel Hecker, quartermaster in charge of transportation of the troops. Paymaster General Stanton testified that orders and requests were given him from those in command of the forces, asking that the pay of the volunteers be deferred until they should return to the United States, held in Cuba on the order of Major General Miles, he thought, and from the troops in Porto Rico either on orders or requests of several commanders.

Colonel Hecker, who had just returned from Cuba, was examined in detail as to the charters and purchases of vessels by the war department. He said between June 20 and July 25 he purchased 17 vessels on the authority of the secretary of war. He found 90 per cent of the vessels offered wholly unsuited.

"The prices paid," he insisted, "would have been a fair value under ordinary circumstances." He said further there was not a single instance where any influence outside the government and the contracting parties could have been used in the purchases.

"Was there any possibility for any third party to be benefited by these sales?

"In the cases of the Port Victor and the Scandia there certainly was," was "To what extent, however, the reply. I can't tell."

Queried as to the railway contracts he interjected that it was not he but the railways that "controlled the rates, as they charged more than they ought to have received. He referred to transportation arrangements between Chickamauga and Newport News and said better rates had been obtained by letting these contracts in this city, the tariff having been reduced from $13 to $8 per man for the same service.

Colonel Hecker made an emphatic denial that there was any "influence" in "routing" the troops on the several Resignation Presented to the Diet to Budapest Causes an Uproar.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 8 .- In the lower house of the Hungarian diet some noisy scenes occurred. The letter of Dr. D. de Szilagvi, president of the chamber of deputies, announcing his resignation, was read and Dr. L. Ling, one of the vice presidents, personally announced. his resignation.

Francis Kossuth, in behalf of his party, and Palonyi, for the Independents, proposed that no cognizance be taken of Dr. Szilagyi's resignation, whereupon the premier, Baron Banffy arose to reply. For a time the uproar made his remarks mad tible. When he could make houself heard the denied that the government desired D Sziragyt to make illegal use of the rules of the house and employ torce. Finally a resolution was adopted requesting Dr Szilagyi to withdraw his resignation.

A Number of Witnesses Before the Grand Jury.

For Consideration at This Sitting, Because the Last Indictment Was Thrown Out on a Technicality-Other Persons Charged Are In Jail.

LISBON, Dec. 8 .- [Special]-The special grand jury is in session today considering a number of cases.

The jury will only look after such persons as are now confined in the county jail, those who are under bond being reserved for the next regular jury. The only exception to this arrangement of Prosecutor Brookes is Lon Fogo, late superintendent of the Wellsville water works. He was indicted by the last grand jury, but the case was thrown out on a technicality.

The most important case is that of Theodore Pryor who is charged with the murder of Henry Clark, a negro deckhand of the steamboat Ben Hur while it was tied to the wharf at Liverpool. A number of witnesses from that place are here, and the deckhands who have been in jail, being held as witnesses, also testified.

Seeing a Bullet In Flight.

"As every sportsman knows," said an enthusiastic New Orleans hunter, "it is easy to see a rifle bullet in the ment. air, and those fired from the new high power guns are very curious to look at. Stand a dozen yards at one side of the mark and let a friend blaze away at any range with a small caliber weapon using smokeless powder, and you'll see a strange, bluish white streak the instant the bullet strikes home. The streak is apparently a couple of inches wide and several feet long and is more I can think of.

"With the old fashioned Remington or Springfield carbine the bullet has the appearance of a long black rod, and I don't know why there should be such a difference in the optical illusion produced by the smaller caliber. I have heard some people deny that the bullet can be seen, but they are very much in error. It all depends on getting the right viewpoint. A few feet either way will render the missile invisible, but the right spot is soon found by experiment, and after that the thing is as plain as day "-New Orleans Times-Democrat

Big Men and Big Noses.

Cyrano de Bergerac is remembered because of his large nose. Few know that he was a poet, and fewer still know his poetry The nose is a conspicuous feature of history The length of Cleopatra's is said to have figured in Roman politics, and a scandal grew out of it which ended in the ruin and death of Antony and the establishment of an empire which lasted a thousand years Napoleon would not promote a man who had not a large nose. He himself was well favored in this respect. Cæsar was "the hook nosed Roman."

All American statesmen have been noted for this feature. Old men tell of our own Benton, who used to shake his nose like an elephant's proboscis when he got excited. It seems to be the law that all great men have great noses, but let no one think that the converse of this is true, that all men who have great noses are great men. Such a conclusion would lead to confusion and needless pain and disappointment. -St Louis Post-Dispatch.

Evening Dress in Kansas City.

The dress suit is the most democratic raiment in the world. It meets the requirements of good form, whether it was made six years ago or last month. Attired in evening costume, whether the swallowtails are long or short, narrow or wide, all men look, practically speaking, alike, whether they are wage earners or millionaires. The dress suit levels all distinctions and illustrates the potentiality of a correct style. The young man who has made a good selection in his rented broadcloth serenely greets his wealthy rival who has paid for his.London clothes a price like $250. How the fame of this world grows small when wrapped in a swallowtail coat among many others of the same cut! Officers Will Not Be Chosen Without a Contest, There Being a Number of Candidates--Columbus Is After the Next Meet-

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 7.-[Special ]-The second annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor and the fifteenth annual convention of the State Trades and Labor assembly of Ohio, is in session at Union Labor hall, this place. One hundred delegates were present when President T. L. Lewis' gavel fell. Will R. Gallagher, Zanesville, introduced Mayor L. H. Gibson, who welcomed the visitors in a brief speech, to which President Lewis responded.

The morning was taken up by the organization of the convention. The afternoon session was devoted to general business. Last evening the visiting delegates were the guests of the local union at an open meeting, which was followed by a social session. The convention will be in session for several days. The election of officers promises to be sharply contested. There is strong opposition to President Lewis' re-election and Secretary August Smith, of Toledo, has a strong opponent in Joseph A. Bauer, secretary of the local Central Trades and Labor council and Federal Labor union. The fight for the next convention is keen. Zanesville wants it a second time and there are half a dozen other competitors. The general belief is that Columbus will get the plum.

American Woman's Novel Experience at the San Juan Bombardment.

A singular incident was told by Mrs. de Muro, daughter of George Buttler of New Brunswick, N. J., at an entertainment given at the residence of Mrs. John Waldron, in that city recently. It was relative to the recent Spanish-American war, upon which she talked for the benefit of the Young People's Missionary guild of the First Reformed

Mrs. de Muro is an American and the wife of Senor Ruperto de Muro, a director of the Territorial and Agricultural Bank of Porto Rico. During the war she and her husband agreed not to discuss the matter. "It was a difficult task," said Mrs. de Muro, "especially when callers came in the evening and talked of the conflict. They took it for granted that I did not approve of my countrymen's action, but I always undeceived them. It vexed me when they said the Maine disaster was the result of an accident, and the ship's officers were out dining that night.

She also spoke of the bombardment of San Juan, her residence being very near the San Cristobal fort. It occurred on May 12, and the town was thrown into confusion. People fell dead from terror Some of the shells had "12" marked on them, and the Porto Ricans thought this implied that May 12 had been fixed for the bombardment. Frequently her home was surrounded by soldiers, who had been aroused by rumors of an American

'The most exciting event of my life, said Mrs. de Muro, "was the attack made by Captain Sigsbee with the St Paul upon the Terror. I witnessed the fight from my front veranda It lasted for some time, and the St. Paul's shells fairly rained upon the destroyer." She also witnessed the attack made by the New Orleans and Cincinnati upon the Spanish steamer Antonio Lopez, which they destroyed Before the war ended Mrs. de Muro fled into the interior to the plantation of her uncle. - New York Journal.

NEED FOR DRYDOCKS.

The Baltimore's Speed Reduced About One-half by Accumulations.

The Baltimore has recently been docked at Hongkong, and the report of the docking contains an interesting feature. The ship had not been in dock previously since April 24, and since that date the vessel had been almost continuously in the harbor of Manila.

The report received at the pavy de partment states that the bottom of the ship was completely covered with a bard substance, limelike in quality, resembling a coral formation It did not resist the efforts of the cleaners and yielded readily to the scraping. It was found that the steel plates of the hull were not injured and that even the paint was not disturbed. It was expected from the appearance of the bull to find the plates badly pitted, and that the paint would be removed with the substance. The effect of this accumulation on the hull was that the speed of the vessel was reduced about one-half, a result which would have proved disastrous in time of war, when it would be important to keep clean bottoms if the enemy was to be successfully chased.

This incident shows the necessity for docking facilities on the Asiatic station. At present our ships must resort to the British dockyards, which may not always be accessible. There is no dock at Manila, where the shops supported by the Spanish government are filled with old tools and exhibit unmistakable signs of neglect and abuse. The navy department will urge that means of docking and cleaning and repairing our warships in the far east be afforded by congress With the acquisition of the Philippines and the enlargement of American interests in the Pacific and in Asia, it has become imperative, naval officers assert, that the United States possess its own dock, capable of accommodating the large ships likely to be part of the Asiatio squadron. - Baltimore Sun

BEDTIME FOR SOCIETY. The First

Philadelphia Social Leaders Make It Two In the Morning.

WILL CLOSE BALLS AT THAT HOUR.

Dinners Before the Dancing Class to Be at Half Past Seven-Some of the Views Expressed-Only One Negative Vote In a Hundred For the Plan to Get More Sleep.

More than 100 women prominent in Philadelphia society, who have been aroused to take united action by the Surplus, necessity for holding entertainments at earlier hours, met the other afternoon at the Acorn club, in Walnut street. It was decided that ladies giving dinners on the evenings dancing classes are held should send out their invitations for half past 7 o'clock, so that their guests may go directly afterward to the dancing classes, arriving there by half past 9 o'clock.

Another means to encourage earlier hours was the adoption of a resolution making it a matter of etiquette to go to a ball not less than an hour after the time named in the invitation. The meeting unanimously expressed its opinion that the hour for closing a ball should be 2 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. W. W. Frazier said she thought the mothers were the ones to decide the question. She expressed herself as heartily in favor of the movement. Mrs. Robert W. Leslie said if the men could be induced to agree to the change the rest would be easily accomplished.

Mrs. John Cadwalader approved of earlier bours for entertainments, but thought it would not be well too limit the hours, thus telling guests when to go. The general movement in favor of earlier hours, she thought, would soon result in bringing them about.

"We cannot dictate to people at what hour they shall dine or go to bed," remarked Mrs. Edward Coles, "but something should be done to secure an earlier attendance at balls, thus making it much easier for those who are obliged to stand for hours. There is no rest for these weary ones before the ball.'

"If dinners were at half past 7," said Mrs. William Platt Pepper, "the dreadful period between half past 10 and 12 o'clock would be bridged and dinner would be more brilliant, for everybody would be in full dress. Last winter I went to several balls at about half past 11 and found about two people in the ballroom. I think it a senseless thing. People could dine just as well at half past 7 and get to the balls early."

Mrs. Frederick T. Mason, who has charge of the Monday night dancing class, said: "If the mothers would see that their daughters are at the dancing class at half past 9, I will see that it is closed at half past 12." "It all depends on the men coming early!" shouted one of the ladies in the assemblage. "If the girls come early," replied Mrs. Charles Curtis Harrison, "you can depend upon JEWELER -:- OPTICIAN, their drawing the men early. All in favor of earlier hours please say 'Aye.'

"Aye," responded 100 voices, and only one nay was heard. "Delightful!" said Mrs. Harrison. "The next question is how we can get earlier hours. Mrs. Coles has said she did not think we could dicrate when a ball should be closed."

Mrs. A. J. Cassatt said the committees of several of the midwinter balls, including the Benedicts, had approved of their earlier hours and would do all in their power to advance the cause. Mrs. Owen Jones Wister announced on behalf of the assembly committee that steps were being taken to begin the as sembly balls at an earlier hour. Mrs. Frazier remarked that a fixed hour for closing would regulate the difficulty. Mrs. Clement A. Griscom expressed approval of closing balls earlier.

'I don't think any of us giving a ball would like to say when our friends should go away," said Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel. "But if they got there at half past 10, the ball would naturally close earlier." At the close of the meet ing the ladies all seemed well satisfied at the decisive action they had taken. -New York Herald.

Favored by Fortune.

The other day a young man at Albert Park, Victoria, N. S. W., took up a revolver from a friend's mantelshelf with which to hammer a tack into the wall. The revolver was loaded and went off. The ball cut a thin gold ring from the man's little finger, tore through his trousers, struck on some silver he had in his pocket, ricochetted and pierced the toe of his boot. Result: Damage to trousers and boot and one broken ring The man did not suffer to the extent of a pin prick. Moral: Always carry some money in your pockets. - Sydney Bulleshould the pottery combination fail to materialize at the last moment some manufacturers will not be caught napping. They will have traveling salesmen in their employ, and can market their goods as though they had not been thinking for several months that the work was to be done by the trust.

It is the custom of pottery concerns to make contracts with their salesmen at the end of each year, and as a rule there is little trouble in completing the This time, howarrangement. ever, trust prospects seemed to interfere, and there were some anxious salesmen. Now a number, it is learned on good anthority, are in a better frame of mind. It seems that the number of potteries entside the trust has disturbed some that are in, and not knowing what the negotiations now in progress will amount to they have employed their salesmen for another year. The trust, it is understood, is to take care of all contracts made by individual potteries prior to the signing of final papers, so that arrangements with travelers are made to come under that head. It may, however, be expensive for the trust.

Mice of All Colors.

The National Mouse Club of England recently held an exhibition where several hundred mice competed for gold medals, champion cups and various other prizes. These little creatures are not the ordinary everyday mice which scare the cook and drive the mistress of the house to take refuge on a chair. They are well bred mice that expected to be petted and caressed and treated as tenderly as a pet cat or dog.

By careful breeding they have developed great variety in coloring and sometimes in shape. One very choice style of animal, called the spiny mouse, has a row of bristling bair for a spinal ornament and is a very cute miniature reproduction of a porcupine. The familiar white mice so often seen for sale on the streets here have been bred with black eyes instead of red ones. It has taken several years to produce these results, but the society now claims to be able to furnish mice in 12 or 13 different shades. To any one who is able to overcome the fear of mice they are dainty, delicate little studies at any time, but when they play around in suits of chocolate, sable, fawn, jet black, tortoise or golden agouti they become perfectly fascinating.

As in the case of all fads of this kind, the prices brought by these little pets are extremely steep. Fifteen dollars or $20 is not a large price to pay for a well bred mouse, and some of them have been sold for as high as $25

Mourning by Proxy. Our ways of showing respect to the dead would surely be past the comprehension of the Martians or of anybody else whom custom has not blinded to the absurdity of some of the things we do. For example, a funeral procession went out Fourteenth street one sunny afternoon recently, and in the train I recognized the carriage of a woman 1 know A little surprised at her presence. I glanced at the carriage windows, but the shades were down. I pictured her within, so overcome with grief at her friend's death that she could not bear the curious eyes of chance passers. That same afternoon I met her coming out of a theater-gay, rosy, laughing. She had been to the matinee, while her empty carriage, in token of her sorrow, followed her dead friend to the grave. - Washington Star.

It was also decided to publish a newspaper in the interest of the union and to advocate reforms in the treatment of female servants.

Before relating the effect of the Domestics' union in Christiania it is have now sprung up all over the Scandinavian countries, principally in Nor way and Denmark. The movement has spread into Germany, Austria, England, France and Belgium, and last October a convention was held at Videcided before forming a general society. to send two delegates to America to secure the support of the women servants in America. The two delegates that have started are Miss Ida Christoffersen. a Norwegian, and Henrietta Maller, a Danish woman, who also speak the German language.

In Europe the movement has secured the earnest support of the labor unions and the proposition will be made to admit these domestics' unions on equal terms into the European labor unions. The expenses of the Vienna convention and the American delegates are paid by the European labor unions. How the American labor unions will act in this matter or if the women servants' delegates come to America with their sanction is a matter of conjecture, the German and Scandinavian newspapers in their report of the convention merely hinting that the delegates will be welcomed by the American labor unions. And now, to return to the Norwegian Domestics' union, the immediate result was the organization of employers' unions, binding themselves not to employ a servant who was a member of the Domestics' union, and similar employers' unions were formed in other European cities, but the employers, to their sorrow, found that to carry out their resolution was almost an impossibility. Neither have the servants sought to have their demands fulfilled by a general strike. By mutual consent a truce has been entered into, the employers glad of the delay, while the servants are no doubt following out the plan of some secret councilors to first strengthen themselves and enroll every servant in Europe in their organization before making their demands.

The conditions of the woman servants of Europe are little understood in this country. Long hours, bard work, coarse food, comfort in the American sense of the word almost unknown, and as to wages $25 per year is the average pay of women servants, even the higher or upper servants in England getting very little above this sum. A separate room for the maidservant is almost unknown. In most households she is considered a household article that can be provided for anywhere. She has in most cases only a cold, uncomfortable garret or a bunk in the kitchen. Her feelings are not considered. In fact, she is not expected to have any feelings. She is a drudge, and still she is expected to always be neatly dressed, to cook, to be within call any bour during the night or day, a machine always ready for use. America is the Mecca for the woman servants of Europe, and the reports coming from here to the friends still in the European bondage of the large wages, easy work, good treatment and short bours make them, of course, feel discontented. Norwegian women are highly intelligent, the absence of a titled aristocratic class gives them more independence of manner and thought, and it is no surprise that this social revolution has started in Norway. While every one must sympathize with the European woman servant's condition, and the attempt she may make to improve it, the proposition to introduce the movement among the woman servants in America must by every fair minded man or woman be condemned. No servants in the world are treated more liberally, more humanely than the domestic servants in our American houses. - Chicago Times-Herald.
